BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

IN GERMANY, at Hanover, a cigar shaped car, built like a Zeppelin, running on an abandoned railroad track, driven by a 400-horsepower airplane motor, its propeller hitting against the air, as a steamship screw hits against the water, carried 40 passengers 100 miles an hour. It can go faster. The German government makes the experiment, and we, in free countries, will be content to shout "Nationalism," and borrow the idea later.

Such cars or other small carrying units, started at short intervals each making a nonstop trip to its destination, will solve the city transportation problems, for railroads and solve, also, their problem of motor omnibus competition.

• • •

TO FASTEN 10 or more heavy cars together, haul them with innumerable expensive stops, is stupidly wasteful, as this column has occasionally suggested.

Railroads have the tracks, the right-of-way, the possibility of speed that motor busses cannot touch.

If they have brains and energy to discard long trains, especially on suburban runs, substituting small cars each an express, they will pay better dividends, and give better service.

RAS TAFARI, soon to be crowned Emperor of Abyssinia, is receiving compliments, accompanied by gifts from other rulers. King George sends a coronation cake weighing almost 2,000 pounds. An Abyssinian would like that.

President Hoover sends his photo with his name written on it. President Hindenburg of Germany sends an autographed photograph, plus 500 bottles of the finest Rhine wines.

France sends an airplane, built with special care.

• • •

WHICH of these presents do you think will be most highly appreciated by Haile Sallassie, which will be Ras Tafari's official name after the coronation?

The gift from France seems to suggest, "Remember that we can come and get you."

That from Hindenburg might mean, "Enjoy yourself while you may. In Germany we know that the emperor business has its ups and downs."

LAST WEEK'S stock market closed with lowest averages since the beginning of 1930. The foolish rout of sellers were getting rid of stocks, an excellent sign.

Speculators of a certain type, very numerous, lose hope and get out throwing stocks overboard, just as they reach bottom prices. They buy them back later, when they have gone too high, then hang on a while, and sell out again at the bottom.

The flight of the timid, indicating that the bottom is not far away encourages men that hold on.

• • •

STOCK BROKERS share their customers' grief. A stock exchange seat sold last Saturday for $245,000. Last year it was worth more than double that sum. Ten years hence, if we are not then in one of our periodical slumps, that seat will be worth close to a million, quite the 40 per cent watering of stocks.

Don't gamble, but gather money together and watch your opportunity.

COLD BLAMED FOR SIX FIRES, $2,300 LOSSES

Sparks from Flues as Marion Residents Seek Relief Cause Heavy Damage.

FIREMEN ARE KEPT BUSY

Staley Home Partially Destroyed at Loss of $2,000; Starts Other Blazes.

Winter's advent brought half a dozen fires in Marion over the week-end and this morning. Damage passed the $2,300 mark.

Blaming shingle roofs for a majority of the blazes, Fire Chief T. J. McFarland today declared inflammable roofs are city's greatest fire menace. Sparks from chimneys as Marionites started furnaces and stoves going Saturday and yesterday were responsible for four of the six fires.

The most damaging fire of the six broke out in the roof of the J. E. Staley residence at 138 South Seffner avenue shortly after noon yesterday. The fire spread rapidly through partitions of the house, destroying plastering in all upstairs rooms and paper in all but one of the downstairs rooms.

Damage $2,000

Two streams of water were trained on the fire to bring it under control. Damage is estimated at $2,000.

This fire was directly responsible for one other serious fire and another slight blaze.

The residence of Lem Price at 144 South Seffner, adjointing the Staley house, was ignited by flying sparks from the first fire. The shingle roof was ignited, and one side of the house was badly scorched. Damage on this residence amounted to $50.

Located diagonally across Seffner street on Grove avenue, the Mariah Rush residence was ignited by flying sparks. A bucket of water extinguished this new outbreak with no damage.

Company No. 1 answered the call to the Staley residence, and handled the subsequent fires. In the confusion, a Uhler avenue resident turned in another alarm, and brought company No. 2 to the scene, but no fire was located on that street.

Flying Sparks Blamed

Yesterday shortly after 9 a. m. flying sparks ignited a shingle roof on the J. D. Morehart residence at 586 North Greenwood street, causing fire that did $250 damage. Company No. 3 answered the call.

Kindling stacked too near a furnace in the cellar of a double house at 306 Linden place this morning caused a fire. Flames were extinguished after the house had been filled with smoke. Slight damage was done. Company No. 1 answered the call.

The last of the six fires this morning did not call for much exertion on the part of firemen at the No. 3 station on East Mark street. A Buick sedan, ignited by a short circuit of wiring in the motor, was driven to the station early this morning by R. P. Murphy of 619 North Main street. Firemen extinguished the flames with a bucket of water after $10 damage had been done.

MAU RECOMMENDS RELEASE OF BUCKLEY

District Attorney Acts in Case of Former State Treasurer.

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 20—United States District Attorney Haveth E. Mau today said he had written to the United States board of paroles, Washington, recommending the release from Atlanta federal penitentiary of Bert B. Buckley of Dayton, former state treasurer, convicted of conspiracy to violate the national prohibition law.

Mau said Buckley's application for parole had been under consideration for some time but the federal board was awaiting his attitude toward the petition.

The district attorney also said that Mrs. Buckley visited his office last week in regard to action on her husband's petition for release but details of the visit were not made public at the time.

Buckley was sentenced to Atlanta for two years, six months and one day for alleged conspiracy to bribe a federal prohibition agent. He started serving his term on Nov. 7, 1929.

TWO MINERS KILLED

By International News Service

OHIO C. OF C. HEAD ON PROGRAM HERE

Four Hundred Farm Bureau Members Expected To Hear Frank B. McMillan Tonight.

One hundred and fifty Farm Bureau workers and leaders from nine counties attended the opening session of a district meeting in Hotel Harding this morning. Afternoon and night programs of the meeting are expected to bring 400 persons here today.

An address tonight in the Central Junior High school by Frank B. McMillin, president of the Ohio Chamber of Commerce, on "What Is Ahead in Business and Agricultural Relationships" was scheduled as the feature of the meeting.

In his talk tonight, Mr. McMillin was to point out that "agriculture and other business meets on common ground."

The average farmer in this community is as comfortable at a Rotary luncheon as the average businessman, McMillan declares.

The problem of reducing waste and extravagance in public expenditures is one which affects every taxpayer is to be discussed.

Farm Bureau leaders and Ohio State university representatives appeared on the afternoon program of the meeting—in Hotel Harding. Agricultural business was the subject of M. D. Lincoln, general manager of the Ohio Farm Bureau corporation. Other addresses were given by A. F. Moon, director of the Ohio Farm Bureau board; Miss Verna Eisinger, organization director of the Ohio Farm Bureau, and C. R. Arnold, of the agricultural extension department of Ohio State University, who opened the morning session. His talk was devoted to "What Is Ahead in Production."

A group luncheon was held in the hotel this noon, and a group dinner was scheduled for tonight, after which the sessions will move to the Central Junior building.

The meeting is the first of a series of 11 in the state during Farm Bureau week. These meetings precede an annual membership drive of the organization.

Counties represented this morning were Marion, Craward, Delaware, Franklin, Madison, Morrow, Richland and Union.

A pageant by the Prospect township Farm Bureau will conclude the meeting tonight.

SAFE BLOWN BY BURGLARS

Thieves Fail To Find Money in Job at Standard Oil Plant.

GROCERIES, MEATS STOLEN

Two Stores and Bakery Entered by Prowlers Over Week-End.

Four burglaries, including the blowing of a safe in the Campbell street distribution plant of the Standard Oil Co., were reported to police this week-end. Loot from the four burglaries consisted of baked goods, groceries and $1.80 in money.

Police arrived at the Standard Oil plant on Campbell street today at 3 a. m., a few seconds after burglars had blasted the safe with glycerine. No loot was obtained, as the safe contained no money.

Door Blown Off

The door of the safe was blown from its hinges and the station was damaged by the explosion. Although police arrived before the smoke had cleared away, no trace of the burglars could be found.

Roy McCollister of 136 South Vine street, representing the Eger Food Products Co., yesterday afternoon discovered his garage had been looted of considerable foodstuffs. Five large bricks of cheese, a gallon of chili sauce, two gallons of pickles, a gallon of catsup, four dozen packages of coffee, and four dozen small packages of cheese are listed among the loot. The burglary was probably committed Saturday night.

Groceries Taken

Fifteen pounds of cheese, meat, bread and cakes valued at $10 were taken from the M. Pipes grocery at 559 Mt. Vernon avenue Saturday night, according to police reports. A door panel was kicked in to gain entrance.

Burglary of the Home Bakery Saturday night was reported to police by Charles Miller of 314 Windsor street. Pies, cakes and $1.80 in money was taken. Entrance was gained through a window.

Theft of his Chevrolet coach from Evans road Sunday afternoon was reported to police by Francis Coombs of Evans road. The car was painted brown and carried Ohio license No. E76-477.

BLAZE KILLS 650

Chinese Fire Takes Huge Toll of Lives; Starts Aboard Boat.

By The Associated Press

CANTON, China, Oct. 20—Six hundred and fifty persons died in a holocaust in the tea house district of Wuchow, on the Kwangsi-Kwangtung border today.

The fire was reported to have started in a floating restaurant in the west river. It spread rapidly to other craft, hundreds of which jammed the stream, and finally reached buildings on shore.

Hundreds of persons leaped into the stream from blazing boats. Some of them managed to reach shore but scores were reported to have drowned.

CITY OFFICERS SHOW NEED OF 1-MILL TAX

City Hospital Taken as Topic for First of Series of Discussions.

DIRECTOR HAS STATEMENT

Institution Faces Crisis as Practically All Funds Near Exhaustion.

Editor's Note:—Believing citizens of Marion are entitled to full information regarding proposals to be voted upon, The Star has opened its columns to officials of the city who are asking authority for a special one-mill tax levy for municipal operating expenses. This is done solely for the purpose of giving these officials an opportunity to make clear their reasons for requesting the levy.

• • •

The city hospital, ranked as one of Marion's most important municipal institutions, has been taken by city officials as the subject for the first of their series of discussions on the proposed one-mill levy to be placed before voters in November.

Would Produce $45,000

The levy, to be in addition to the one permitted under tax law limitations, without a vote of the people would produce an annual revenue of approximately $45,000 for five years. Without it city officials say, the city can pay operating expenses on the present basis for only 10 months of the year. The levy is intended to increase the revenue for all city activities and not the hospital alone.

The information given below comes from T. E. Sonnanstine, who as safety director of the city, is supervising officer of the hospital. The statement from Mr. Sonnanstine follows.

"Under perfect conditions the hospital could operate on a small margin of profit. But the institution is not always used to capacity, and not all patients pay their bills. As a result, the institution ended 1929 with a deficit of $13,011, which was paid by tax money. This figure is not unusual, as the institution has averaged a $7,400 deficit for the last 12 years.

"Faces Crisis"

"Given only $53,000 on which to operate 12 months, the hospital is facing a financial crisis. The fund for food supplies for patients and hospital employes is overdrawn by

DERBY CHASE OPENS ANNUAL DOG EVENT

Joint Trials of Two Associations Held Here; Part of Entries Stranded in Storm.

With a picked field of dogs from all sections of the country assembled here, the annual combined field trials of the Southern Ohio and the Miami Valley Dog associations got under way near here today.

The derby chase of the Southern Ohio association was being run this morning. The events are being held along the Marion-Agosta road starting at 8 a. m. each day. O. H. Neimeyer, state game protector, is manager of the events.

Neimeyer stated at noon today that a large number of entries for the trials have not arrived in Marion, having been stranded in New York by the heavy snowstorm.

Drawing for the Southern Ohio open chase will be held tonight in the Marion hotel.

This is the first year that the Miami valley group has held the annual events in this region while it is the second for the Southern Ohio Association. Until brought to Marion the trials had been held for nearly 20 consecutive years in the southern part of Indiana.

The trials started today at the Plummer farm two miles west of Marion. Neimeyer stated that the trials will start from this point each day.

Cries of Child Save Family in Home Blaze

LARUE, O., Oct. 20—Cries of a child frightened by darkness in its room today were believed responsible for the safety of other members of the family when fire partially destroyed the George Hague home here Sunday morning.

The loss to the house and its contents will probably reach more than $2,000. The damage is partially covered by insurance.

The fire is believed to have started from a defective flue. The flames destroyed part of the electric wiring causing a light in the child's room to go out. Its cries awakened Mrs. Hague at about 3 a. m. She smelled smoke and awakened other members of the family.

VICTORIOUS FLIER ON WAY TO BRIDE

Kingsford-Smith, with New Air Record, Prepares for November Wedding.

By The Associated Press

PORT DARWIN, NORTHERN TERRITORY, AUSTRALIA, Oct. 20—Dashing across a continent to reach the side of his fiancee, Wing Commander Charles Kingsford Smith today flew eastward over the 2,000-mile route to Sydney after lowering by more than five days the record for a flight between England and Australia.

He will marry Miss Mary Powell just as quickly as she will consent after his arrival at Sydney. For her sake this man whom many have compared favorably with Colonel Lindbergh will forsake the uncharted air paths of the world and settle down to more humdrum but less dangerous air-liner pilot ing between Sidney and Melbourne.

Kingsford-Smith swooped down here at 2 p. m. yesterday in completion of a flight which in nine days and 23½ hours had brought him across 10,000 miles of plain and mountain, jungle and ocean from Heston Airdrome, England to the northwestern tip of the world's smallest continent.

His mark bettered by five and one-half days the record of 15½ days set by Bert Hinkler in February, 1928. The trip was made in defiance of doctor's orders, who considered that Kingsford-Smith who recently had had two operations and two bouts with influenza was in no condition to fly nearly half around the world.

AUTOISTS QUIT CARS AS ROADS DRIFT SHUT

Erie, Pa., Hardest Hit in New Advance of King Winter.

LAKE TRAFFIC IS HALTED

Temperature Drops to 23 Degrees for New Low This Season

Heavy snows in western New York and northern Pennsylvania last night, which tied up highway, rail and lake traffic, were reported today as Ohio and other states bordering on the Great Lakes felt the first frosty breath of winter.

Highways near Erie, Pa., were drifted high with snow, causing many motorists to abandon their cars and to spend the night in farm houses, according to Associated Press dispatches. Interurban and steam railroad traffic in that vicinity also was thrown behind schedule when snow plows were called into use to clear the tracks.

Lakes Rough

Storms on the lakes sent hundreds of boats scurring to safe harbors, while one freighter came into port at Erie last night with its cargo damaged. Others boats which defied the choppy waters reported that progress was difficult.

Marion reported one of the lowest temperatures in Ohio last night when the mercury fell to 23 degrees above zero. At Dayton it was 21, at Columbus 22 and at Cleveland 29 for new low records for the autumn season.

A slight snowfall was reported here at 1 a. m., as well as in other northern Ohio cities. Filling stations and garages today were selling alcohol for radiators which had frozen during the night, while other more fortunate motorists filled their radiators with alcohol as a precautionary measure.

Continued cold for tonight and Tuesday, accompanied by heavy frost tonight, was predicted by the weatherman today.

A year ago today the temperature ranged from a 50 low to high of 75. Yesterday's temperature never exceeded 42 degrees above zero.

Snow, more than a foot deep in some of the rural sections of Pennsylvania and New York and the sharp drop in the temperature, was believed to have ruined what remained of the Chautauqua-Erie

TRAIN HITS AUTOMOBILE

Machines Driven by Prospect Woman and Former Marion Pastor Collide.

Two men and their wives and four other persons were killed in Ohio Sunday as the result of automobile accidents, according to an International News Service dispatch.

Among the eight was Mrs. Gene Paul Long, 40, teacher in the schools at Sparta, Morrow county. Her husband, mayor of Centerburg, Knox county, also was killed. He was 57 years old.

The two were instantly killed when the machine in which they were riding was struck by a train near Columbus. The accident was witnessed by James Long, their son, who looked on from a street car he had just boarded. The son said he believed his father failed to see the train because of the street car running parallel with the road. He is an Ohio State university student.

ONE HURT, NINE ESCAPE

Cars Driven by Prospect Woman and Minister Collide.

One person was seriously injured and nine others barely escaped with minor cuts and bruises when automobiles driven by Mrs. Helen Mounts, wife of Harry Mounts, deputy county auditor, of Prospect, and Rev. H. V. McCleary of Somerset collided at the intersection of the Marion-Mt. Gilead and Columbus-Sandusky roads Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Mounts, accompanied by her daughter, Ruth Ellen Mounts, who was seriously bruised, and Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Powell of Prospect, was driving an Oldsmobile sedan north on the road at the time of the collision. Rev. McCleary, accompanied by his wife, and their daughter Mrs. R. E. Brightup and three children of Rockford, Ill., was going east on the Mt. Gilead road in a Ford coach.

Rev. McCleary is known to a number of Marionites, having held the pastorate of U. Wesley M. E. church here in the years 1909, 1910 and 1911.

Mrs. Powell and Ruth Ellen Mounts were taken to the Frederick C. Smith clinic. Miss Mounts suffered a scalp wound and is still a patient at the clinic. Mrs. Powell sustained a fractured collar bone.

WEYLER, SPANISH WAR LEADER, DIES

Accident Leads to Death of Man Prominent in Conflict with America.

By The Associated Press

MADRID, Oct. 20—General Valeriano Weyler, Spanish officer whose administration in Cuba was one of the contributing causes of the Spanish-American war, died today at the age of 82.

Weyler was captain-general of the Spanish army, highest ranking officer of the body and among the last of Spain's oldtime militaristic figures who were conspicuous in her campaigns more than thirty years ago.

The old warrior, who during the '90s and the early part of the present century was one of Spain's picturesque army chiefs, succumbed to after-effects of his fall off a horse and accumulated infirmities of age.

Until his death General Weyler took an active interest in public affairs. He was one of the intensive enemies of the Primo dictatorship and always said he would "live to see the end of the De Rivera regime." Primo once fined General Weyler 100,000 pesetas for opposing the dictatorship.

COUNTY FAIR'S FATE IN DOUBT

Mt. Gilead Officials Await Returns Before Making Final Decision.

Special To The Star

MT. GILEAD, Oct. 20—Morrow county fair officials, who stated before the annual fair was held last week that if it did not pay this year there would be no more fairs, are still uncertain about the situation because all expenditures have not yet been listed. Gate receipts amounted to $3,322.50, a total of 13,290 admissions being sold. Admission price was reduced for 50 to 25 cents and a charge of 25 cents for automobile was made for the first time this year. The attendance totaled 10,656 persons.

The total attendance is an increase of only 1,495 over 1929. The total gate receipts were $1,635 less than in 1929. Concession revenues also is less this year than in 1929.

The loss in gate receipts is practically offset by the elimination of the rain insurance. The insurance cost approximately $800 last year.

CORN KING WILL NOT BREAK OLD RECORDS

Public Invited To Witness Tests by University at Farm Nov. 12.

KENTON, Oct. 20—Farmers and persons interested in agricultural matters throughout the state have been invited to attend a corn harvest field day to be held in the farm of Ira Marshall of Ada, world champion corn king, Nov. 12.

While his corn production this year will fall below that of other seasons, Marshall believes he has 100 acres that will yield more than 100 bushels to the acre. Ten-acre entries on his field will be checked on the field day by specialists of Ohio State university before several hundred farmers.

The manner in which the world's champion corn grower produces his record yields will be shown along with other features to be worked out by specialists of the university.

"I DON'T FEEL JUST RIGHT, DOC"

(The Common Way of Describing Acidity)

You're not sick, yet not well. Your stomach isn't just right, you don't sleep well and you tire easily. Your color isn't what it should be and you probably look drawn. A sort of vague, run-down feeling is one of the first symptoms of acidity. Acidity not only causes acid-indigestion with gas, sourness and burning, but sets up poisons which sap strength and vitality and makes us feel physically and mentally low.

Magnesia Oxoids, developed in Germany by a famous, 100-year-old pharmaceutical house, correct acidity in the right way! Upon contact with the acid in the stomach, Magnesia Oxoids generate nascent, or active oxygen. The "live" oxygen stimulates the alkaline gastric mucus, checks putrefaction in the gastro-intestinal canal and stimulates the activities of the intestinal walls which aids the natural movement of the bowels. All three effects are necessary to the true correction of acidity.

Make this Acidity Test

To see just how "acid" you are, make this test. Get a package of Magnesia Oxoids from Bradley's Drug Store or any other good druggist. Take two after each meal and see how much better you feel—how much more soundly you sleep and how much more energy you have. If, after taking the contents of one bottle, the results don't more than amaze you, return the bottle to the druggist and he will refund your money promptly and in full. A-5-S

MT. GILEAD ELEVEN LOSES TO CRESTLINE

Weak Blocking and Tackling Leads to 44-to-0 Defeat; Long Runs Feature.

Special To The Star

MT. GILEAD, Oct. 20—Crestline High defeated the Mt. Gilead eleven at Crestline Saturday, 44 to 0. This was Mt. Gilead's third defeat in four games played with LaRue, Galion, Ashley and Crestline. In the four their only win was registered here last week when they won from Ashley.

Inability to solve Crestline plays and poor tackling and blocking were apparently the cause of the large score at Crestline. Nearly every touchdown was scored on long wide end runs. Touchdowns were scored by Eccleston, Varga, Brown and J. Arcudi.

Tangled Issues To Face Voters At November 4 Election

Political Map Mixed as 47 States Go to Polls

Voters Will Choose Complete New House of Representatives; Governors To Be Elected in 33 States; Numerous Issues Involved in Campaign.

Editor's Note: This is the first of a series by Byron Price, chief of the Associated Press bureau in Washington, outlining the national political situation as it appears before November elections in 47 states. Other stories will follow.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20—Another nationwide political campaign is nearing its climax amid a confusion of men and measures which is at once reminiscent and prophetic.

Over the protest of those party leaders who would prefer to forgive and forget, a strong savor of ingredients smuggled from the troubled ferment of 1928 lingers about the political mixing-boards of 1930.

And the loaves that come from the oven election day will be sampled with many a wistful conjecture about political appetites in the presidential year 1932.

To say it with statistics, the voters this year will choose a complete new house of representatives, consisting of 435 members; 35 senators who will sit in the new congress after March 4, and five others who will fill out interrupted terms ending March 4; the governors of 33 states; and minor state officials in eight others.

Local Questions, Too

The electorate also will decide, by referendum, a combined total of 162 local questions propounded on ballots of 31 states.

Every state but Maine, which clings to the custom of electing in September, will vote on a single election day—Nov. 4.

Stated differently and from a national viewpoint, the voters will say whether President Hoover is to continue to have in office with him a congress overwhelmingly republican. They will settle certain local unpleasantness over candidates who bolted their party ticket two years ago; will, conceivably, sort over in a preliminary way certain others who aspire to graduate into presidential candidates two years hence.

No 'Dominating' Note

Perhaps, too, they will give the politicians a little more light and guidance on popular sentiment on such questions as prohibition.

Only in the most general way is it possible to state the issues on which the election will turn. In the beginning, it was the ukase of Republican and Democratic spokesmen alike that the record of the half-completed Hoover administration should be the dominating note.

It is true that much talk has ensued about the President's attitude toward business depression, unemployment, the tariff, the drouth and what-not, but the effort to maintain a national party front has produced results which might be called surprising even for a time of political turmoil.

If it were possible to lay out a map of the political trenches shortly before election, the line of battle would be found somewhat more crooked than a buzz-saw's edge.

In the never-quiet prohibition sector, for instance, wet Republicans and wet Democrats in such states as New York and New Jersey stand almost side by side, facing directly the dry Republicans and dry Democrats of such states as Kansas, while in an over-populated no-man's-land between burn campfires of a great host of Republicans and Democrats in every state and degree of moistness.

Many Party Splits

On the tariff issue, a sizable section of the west sees duly chosen Republican nominees campaigning against the revision bill signed by the President, while a conspicuous group of Democrats defend votes they cast for this same bill.

In Nebraska Senator Norris seeks reelection as a Republican who bolted Hoover, and is proud of it. In Alabama Senator Heflin fights for another term as an independent Democrat who bolted Smith, and would do it again. Ohio Democrats have named a wet for senator and a dry for governor. A dry Democrat battles a wet Republican for the senate in Montana.

Few Points of Solidarity

The best that can be said is that on a few points there is semblance of solidarity. Democrats generally have attacked Mr. Hoover on the score of business conditions, and the Republicans generally have defended him.

Democrats generally, including the party headquarters, have assailed the Republican tariff, and the Republican headquarters and Republican stalwarts have defended it. In more than a dozen states the Democrats have adopted unqualified declarations for repeal of the prohibition amendment, while on the Republican side such declarations are rare.

It remains for the future to say in what degree these circumstances forecast the national platforms of 1932.

Although the election books list 435 representatives and 35 senators to be chosen to the next congress, the disputed territory by no means covers so extensive an area. In most of the south, and many other safely Democratic or Republican sections, the decision already has been made in the primaries.

Districts Scattered

Actually, in the calculations of party strategists, it comes down in 1930 to about 15 senatorships and 75 places in the house.

The 75 house districts are scattered widely, for the most part one or two to a state. Even the Republican leaders concede their party strength almost outdid itself in the Hoover landslide two years ago, when many normally Democratic districts went Republican. They are prepared to lose most of these—perhaps as many as 40.

To have a house majority the Democrats must stretch this figure into a Democratic gain of 54.

In the senate, where only one-third of the membership is replaced at a time, the margin of possibilities is reduced within narrower limits.

Something like half of the senatorships involved lie in undisputed territory.

Among the 15 or so debatable senatorships remaining, the Democrats not only must hold what they have—and at least two Democratic senators, Walsh of Montana and Steck of Iowa, faces serious opposition—but they must register a net gain of 10 to have a senate majority.

Look to "Border" States

For their supreme effort in the senatorial campaign, then, the Democrats look to such states as Massachusetts and Rhode Island, carried by Smith in 1928; Oklahoma, normally Democratic; Nebraska, where the quarrel in Republican ranks over Senator Norris gives hope to supporters of former Senator Hitchcock; Illinois, where former Senator Lewis opposes the turbulent Republican cohorts supporting Ruth Hanna McCormick; and Kentucky, Colorado, Ohio, West Virginia, Delaware, South Dakota and Wyoming—all states which on occasion have gone Democratic.

State Grange Committee Lays Convention Plans

Executive Group Ends Session at Hotel Harding After Aiding in Arrangements for Entertaining 4,000 Farmers Here in December.

After spending the greater part of the day discussing plans for the state grange convention here in December and winding up the day with a session devoted entirely to state grange activities, the executive committee of the Ohio State Grange Saturday recommended several changes in the plans of the local convention committees. Meeting of the executive group was held in Hotel Harding.

Recommendations of the committee were not made public, and will not be announced until local workers have arranged the changes as suggested by the superior body.

After looking over Marion's accommodations for the crowd of 4,000 persons expecte dhere, the committee approved Marion as the convetnion city.

As the entire morning and part of the afternoon session was devoted to the revision of convention plans and a visit to the meeting places of the convention, the state committee found little time to devote to its routine business.

As a result, the appointment of a county deputy and deputy matron was not accomplished. This will be done by a committee of three designated Saturday. Action of the committee will be reported within a few weeks.

Reappointment of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Williams to these positions is thought likely, as the executive committee placed many recommendations for the convention in the hands of Williams at the meeting Saturday. His appointment expires Oct. 30.

Those present included Walter F. Kirk, state grange master, of Port Clinton; C. A. Dyer, overseer, of Columbus; J. W. Fichter, lecturer, of Hamilton; W. G. Vandenbark, secretary, of Zanesville; John Cunningham of Mt. Vernon; Paul McNish of Burton; Vernon E. Crouse of North Lima. All are members of the executive committee.

Harry L. Fox, managing editor of the Ohio State Grange Monthly, official organ of the grange, attended all sessions of the executive committee meeting.

DR CALDWELL'S way helps any Child's Bowels

OFTEN, this simple prescription brings the first natural, complete bowel action a child has had in weeks. And the entire system benefits from its gentle aid!

Feverishness, biliousness, headaches simply disappear when Syrup Pepsin is used. The bowels become regular and remain that way. Appetite becomes hearty; the digestion becomes more complete; energy and strength are restored.

Nothing you can give a bilious, half-sick, constipated child—or take yourself when your bowels need help—will do as much for you.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a prescription for the bowels, written by a famous physician—one whose record of over 3500 birth cases without loss of one mother or baby is believed unique in American medical history.

No wonder Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is ideal for women and children. But it is equally effective for the bowels of robust men. Whether you're only occasionally constipated or chronically that way, it will cleanse, regulate your bowels, harmlessly and in a hurry. All drugstores have the big bottles.

We challenge any heater to outheat or outlast ANCHOR Cabinet Heaters

If you have felt that all cabinet heaters are of necessity subject to certain limitations, we want you to see the Anchor.

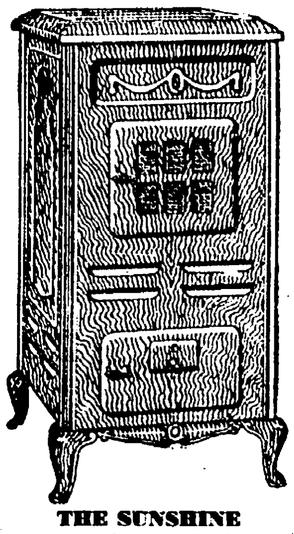
The construction of the heating element is revolutionary. Heavy boiler plate steel is welded into one solid piece. To this is added vitrified tile fire bowls, guaranteed against burning out. There is also the famous Anchor Hot Blast Heat Intensifier—a simple automatic device that gives one-half more heat from the fuel by burning the smoke and gases that escape up the flue in all heaters not so equipped.

Every engine on the railroad—every battleship in the United States Navy—every modern building in the United States which requires a large heating plant is equipped with a steel boiler lined with vitrified tile. The same principle is used by Anchor in these wonderful cabinet heaters.

It is not strange, with all these splendid features, that we challenge any heater to out-perform Anchor.

Come in to-day and select the size best suited to the needs of your home.

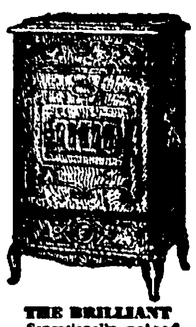
Every Stove Sold This Week Will Include a Handsome Colored Stove Board to Match Stove. Also Free Stove Pipe and Installed Free.



THE SUNSHINE

America's outstanding Cabinet Heater value. Height 49 inches; width 23 inches; depth 23 inches. Heats from four to six or more rooms. Guaranteed fire pot, holding 7/10 of a bushel of coal. Visible fire door, mica illuminated. Beautiful vitreous porcelain enamel finish in warm brown mahogany. A truly remarkable heater.

$89.50



THE BRILLIANT

Sensationally priced guaranteed heater with sufficient capacity for three or four rooms. Height 43 inches; width 24½ inches; depth 20 inches. Guaranteed fire pot. Visible fire door. Brown mahogany vitreous porcelain enamel finish.

$59.50

Milton Sills' Last Picture, "The Sea Wolf," One of Week's Stellar Attractions; Al Jolson and Other Popular Stars in List of Offerings.

BY HALLIE HOUCK

THIS week's column is a dedication to Milton Sills, actor, scholar and athlete, whose death a few short weeks ago robbed the screen of one of its real personalities.

His last picture, "The Sea Wolf," which many critics say was his greatest portrayal comes to the Palace next Friday and Saturday.

It is odd that the first picture that established him as one of its foremost players on the screen, "The Sea Hawk," was a story of the seas and that his last picture should have the same background.

Milton Sills.

Jack London's "The Sea Wolf," was one of the most widely-read books at the time it was published. Sills, who was keenly interested in athletics, participating in some form of outdoor sport all of the time, was one of the most physically fit men on the screen, according to Mitchell Harris one of the cast of "The Sea Wolf."

In a recent interview regarding a fight scene from Sills' last picture, Harris, whose altercation with Sills in a Japanese saloon is said to be one of the high spots of the picture, said of him:

"I, in my ignorance of fight roles on the screen, supposed a pugilistic dispute on the screen would be similar to the faked fights on the stage. After Sills landed a few of those left hooks of his on my anatomy, however, I began to have a different idea of it all."

• • •

A LAVISH super-DeMille production, "Madam Satan," comes to the Palace Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. Review-readers will recognize this picture as the one in which the elaborate ball is staged aboard a giant Zeppelin.

The principal players are Kay Johnson, Reginald Denny, Lillian Roth, Roland Young and Elsa Peterson.

It will come as a surprise to many to know that Denny, who has been a star in silent pictures for nearly 10 years, comes from the oldest singing family of the English stage; that he made his debut in "The Merry Widow" and sang in light opera for years.

The famous Russian ballet star, Theodore Kosloff, who for several years has been devoting his time to the supervision of his dancing schools on the west coast, returns to the screen in this picture—it really comes under the heading of a big production.

• • •

GLORIA SWANSON, pardon, la Marquise de la Falaise, with a cast including Lew Cody, Owen Moore and Margaret Livingston, closes tonight at the Palace in "What a Widow!".

• • •

Jolson To Be at Ohio in "Big Boy."

"MAMMY" COMES to the screen again. Maybe it isn't that type of picture, but Al Jolson's "Big Boy," is at the Ohio tonight and Tuesday.

Al Jolson

Instead of "Sonny Boy," he'll sing "Liza Lee," "Tomorrow is Another Day," "Hooray for Baby and Me," and "Little Sunshine."

With Jolson are Claudia Dell, Louise Hale, Lloyd Hughes, Eddie Phillips, Lew Harvey, Franklin Batie, and John Harron.

Jolson comes back in black face, the way we all first knew him, and with his favorite character name, Gus.

The hundred million people who didn't see the Kentucky Derby last spring, won by Gallant Fox, ridden by Earle Sande, can see it on the screen exactly as it was then, except that "Big Boy" wins, with Jolson riding, so say the press books.

• • •

WELL, HERE'S something to do on the screen, supposed a reporter's ego good. Grant Withers was once a police reporter on a Los Angeles newspaper. Now he's a moving picture actor making oodles of money (comparatively) and is the featured lead in "Dancing Sweeties," at the Ohio Wednesday and Thursday.

The picture was adapted to the screen from the original story by Harry Field, dealing with dance hall life and the folly of modern youth. This "modern youth" problem seems to be a big proposition in Hollywood.

• • •

HERE'S THE Viennese menace, Lotti Loder, coming to the Ohio next Friday and Saturday in "Oh Sailor Behave!" Lotti was born in Vienna four years before the outbreak of the World War when that capital was one of the gayest and most prosperous cities in the world.

Her father died and to make a way for herself and her mother, she went on the stage in 1927, making her debut as a singer and dancer in an act. Throughout middle Europe leading cabarets have an entertainment circuit much like American vaudeville circuits and before long Lotti was offered a place on one of the leading ones.

Irene Delroy makes her screen debut in the leading feminine role in the comedy. She was formerly a dancing partner of Tom Patricola.

Charles King has the leading male role. Funny, to start out with a hullabaloo about one of the cast, Lotti, when Charles King and Delroy are the leads but we were giving you a load of Loder. Lowell Sherman also has a featured role.

No photographs will look so ridiculous in future years as those showing the fashions from 1925 to 1929.

Magazine Comments on Work of Opera Composer

Of interest to local musicians and friends of Albert Bimboni, husband of Helen Louise Davis-Bimboni, is the comment in "Musical America" regarding his work: "When Puccini's opera 'The Girl of the Golden West' was first being presented in the country 20 years ago Alberto Bimboni was on the conducting staff. Here is another example of modest and sterling musician who has quietly made his way to the front. His opera 'Winona' has been sung in Portland, Ore., and in Minneapolis, both times with acclaim. He has shown himself a fine conductor with the Philadelphia Operatic society and during the last year he has been a valued member of the family of the Curtis Institute of Music."

Mrs. Helen Louise Davis-Bimboni is the daughter of the late Supreme Judge W. Z. Davis and is a sister of Mrs. Griselda Davis-Dombaugh of East Church street.

Gleaners' Class Names Committee for Supper

Mrs. Marion Blessing, Mrs. Forest Ballinger and Mrs. W. H. Scott were appointed a committee to arrange for a penny supper in the near future, when the Gleaners Sunday school class of First Church of the Brethren met Thursday night with Mr. and Mrs. Blessing at their home at 142 Uhler avenue. Glen Baird, vice president of the class, was in charge of the business meeting.

A social hour was enjoyed, contest honors going to Mr. Ballinger, Mr. Baird and Mrs. Clifford Bowman. Lunch was served by Mrs. Blessing. Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hughes of Pennsylvania avenue will entertain the class Nov. 11.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNA

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv

CAR TURNS OVER HERE

Columbus Persons Unable to Tell How Accident Happens.

Four Columbus persons were slightly injured in an accident Sunday at 6:45 p. m. on the Delaware road a mile south of Marion none of the five could explain how the accident, which turned the Chevrolet coach over in the ditch several times had happened.

Three of the occupants were taken to City hospital in the W. C. T. U. ambulance for treatment of cuts and bruises. They were D. H. Dixon of 312 South Washington avenue, Hazel Long of 951 McClelland avenue and Goldie Sigler of the same address in Columbus.

Two other men in the car disappeared after the accident. The car was wrecked. It was taken to the Haberman Chevrolet Co. for repairs.

Isn't it amusing, the variety of interruptions a man will get when he is trying to tell a story he doesn't want to in mixed company?

WHEN the President speaks the stock exchange will oblige if it can. President Hoover told the president and the vice president of the stock exchange what he thought of selling short, thus adding to public worry.

And, suddenly, it has become hard to borrow stocks in Wall street. Short sellers must borrow what they sell, since they have not got it.

No one knows who sent around word not to lend stocks for short sales.

And no one knows what the result will be. The way of an eagle in the air, a ship on the seas, a serpent on a rock or a man with a maid is simplicity compared with stock dealing and finance generally.

Letting nature take its course may be the best plan in the long run.

A NATION'S WEALTH comes from the soil and depends on fertility. Fertility depends largely on nitrogen. Untold quantities of nitrogen are in the air above us, billions and billions of tons, and science, with the aid of electricity, can bring it down.

Among countries engaged in synthetic natrogen output, this country stands number nine.

That is not a high rank for the richest nation on earth, with industry so highly developed.

Make fertilizers cheaper, the soil richer, and the farmer can get what he needs, covering a smaller area, and he becomes more efficient. One difficulty lies in the fact that organized producers of fertilizer do not want government meddling with their business, and they have more influence working all year round than 20,000,000 farmers voting once in four years.

• • •

HOW DOES electricity travel? Does it move inside the empty spaces between electrons in the atom? Does it jump from atom to atom as a bell ringer rings his series of bells?

When an electric power line is mentioned, you think of copper wire. But a power line in Canada, 230 miles long, carrying a 220,000-volt load, is built of aluminum.

It is a curious construction, many strands of aluminum wound over a few strands of steel.

That interests copper producers and stockholders. Will some one find an electric carrier better and cheaper than any now known?

What will the new idea do to aluminum stock values?

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION
This is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.
Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years, and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.
Olive Tablets do not contain calomel just a healing, soothing, vegetable laxative safe and pleasant.
No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They help cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.
If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation you should find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets.
Thousands take them every night to keep right. Try them. 15c, 30c, 60c.—Adv.

START LAST ACT IN STEEL MERGER TRIAL

Youngstown Sheet and Tube and Bethlehem Corporation Present Arguments.

By International News Service

YOUNGSTOWN, O. Oct. 20—The last act of the billion-dollar suit over the merger of Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. with Bethlehem Steel Corporation began in common pleas court here today when attorneys for opposing sides started their closing arguments before Judge David G. Jenkins.

The summation probably will require at east a week before Judge Jenkins will take the case under advisement. Testimony in the case was concluded last Sept. 25 after the trial had been under way for more than three months.

Debating the final round of the spectacular case which will decide whether or not the Youngstown concern can legally merge with the Bethlehem corporation, will be eight of the leading corporation lawyers of the nation.

The final debates of the noted attorneys are expected to be masterpieces in court history. The opposing attorneys have drawn upon every legal resource at their command in an effort to win the case.

The injunction suit was brought by the International Shares Corporation an investment company controlled by Cyrus S. Eaton, who led the fight on the merger. Eaton's side charges that the Youngstown and Bethlehem directors fraudulently put through the merger by withholding information from stockholders and by illegally voting numerous proxies at the April 8 stockholders' meeting.

POLICE DRIVE ON TRAFFIC VIOLATORS

Seven Motorists To Face Court Charges of Improper Lights.

Determined to break up violation of Marion's traffic laws, and particularly the practice of driving "one-eye" automobiles, police launched a week-end crusade Saturday night that haled seven motorists into police station to be booked for the traffic court session this week.

Dudley Chase, 24, of 581 Girard avenue, was released on $3 bail when he was arrested Saturday night on a charge of operating a car with one headlight, and double-parking.

Frank Klingle, 51, of Marion R. F. D. No. 5 was arrested at Church and Vine streets last night on a charge of driving through a traffic signal. He was released on $5 bail to appear in traffic court Friday.

Bland Creasap, 27, of 562 Girard avenue, was released on $3 bail following his arrest last night at Main and Center streets on a charge of driving with one headlight.

Other victims of the "one-eye" crusade were M. A. McGrath, 32, of 131 South High street, and George Gibb, 16, of Morral. Gibb was also charged with having no tail light.

Tod Boyd, 51, of Springfield, was arrested by police on a charge of having no headlights. He was released on $3 bail.

Driving a car equipped with one headlight, and hauling four in a one-seated car are charges facing Ira Butcher of Kenton, whom police arrested last night at Center and Main streets. He was released on $5 bail.

CANTO CLUB TO SING AT TEACHERS' MEET

Marion Music Organization Has Three Engagements for Month.

The Canto club has three engagements to sing in the month of October, including a program Oct. 31 at Memorial hall when they sing for the Central Ohio Teachers' association. Friday of this week the club will sing at Central Junior High school for a Parent-Teacher association and next Monday will appear at Trinity Baptist church as the guests of the Lecture-Recital club.

The club announced today that the net proceeds on the benefit dinner and supper Oct. 9 at the Star auditorium were $151.05. There are 10 additional members in the club this year and an assistant director, T. R. Evans. Miss Melvine Summers is accompanist for the club. Ernst Carl is club director.

The new men in the club are H. Orr, Hamer Mitchell D. C. Rueger, E. N. Sloan, C. E. Bowers, L. E. Foster, A. T. Allen, L. F. Schneider William R. Roberts and P. L. Kennedy.

Morral Couple Give Dinner for Relatives

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel McWherter of Morral entertained at dinner Sunday. The occasion marked the first time in 46 years that Mr. McWherter had seen his sister, Mrs. William Scofield of Oklahoma, the first time he had seen his brother, Will McWherter of Pleasant Hill, Mo., in 11 years, and was also Will McWherter's birthday anniversary.

Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Fred McWherter and daughter Verna Mae of Marion, Mr. and Mrs. Willis McWherter of Kileville, O., Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Bruce, and daughter Dorothy Mae of near Green Camp, Don McWherter of Caledonia, Mr. and Mrs. Jess Granlee and children, Annabelle and Richard of Morral, Clarence Grover and Pen, Wilbur and Wayne McWherter.

SCHOOL BOARD MEETS

Routine business was transacted when the county board of education met in the offices of C. B. Slayback, county superintendent of schools, Saturday afternoon.

TO OPEN BIDS

Commissioners to Award Contract Today for Campbell Road.

Sale of the Campbell road in Marion county was scheduled by county commissioners this afternoon when bids for improvement of the road were scheduled to be received in the board's office.

Estimated cost of the road is $2,416.16. It is six-tenths of a mile in length and is to be paved with rolled macadam.

The board Saturday viewed the proposed vacation of a road in Tully township, whose vacation is sought by R. E. Douce and others. The petitioners claim the road will be unusued due to construction of a new road and that the old right-of-way will constitute a nuisance and a menace since its use would necessitate crossing the Erie railroad twice. The new road does not cross the railroad.

Hearing on the vacation will be held in the commissioners' office Saturday at 10 a. m.

MAIN STREET GETS FIRST ASPHALT COAT

Section Between Center and Church Streets To Be Open Friday.

First asphalt used in the resurfacing of Main street from George street to Columbia street was applied this morning by workmen of the H. P. Streicher Co. of Toledo.

Equipment of the company was moved to Main street from Prospect street late Saturday after Prospect street was thrown open to traffic late Saturday afternoon. Prospect street has been resurfaced from Mark street to the Erie railroad tracks.

The section of Main street between Center and Church streets will be rushed to completion and opened to traffic before the end of the week, according to D. J. Harlow, service director. He predicted that section of the street will be in use by Friday.

Finishing touches on the six-foot parking strip along both sides of Main street between Church and Center streets were applied this morning, and workmen began construction of a parking strip between Columbia and Church streets.

Main street will be the last of three streets to be completed as a part of this year's resurfacing program. Silver street from the Hocking Valley railroad tracks to the corporation line, and Prospect street are already completed. Main street will be finished between Nov. 10 and 15.

FEDERAL DRY CHIEF FINISHING SURVEY

Prohibition Director Expects To Improve Enforcement by Tour of "Field."

By International News Service

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20—With stops planned in Indiana and Illinois, Prohibition Director Amos W. W. Woodcock today was entering into the final phases of his nation-wide survey of the government's dry machine.

By the end of the week Woodcock expected to invade the vineyard country of the far west, where interest has been centered recently because of official government reports showing that a tremendous volume of grapes go into wine in the United States annually.

After First Hand Details

Woodcock seeks first hand information as to Pacific coast conditions. He does not intend, however, to interfere with the legitimate distribution of the grape crop. In fact, Woodcock recently indicated there was nothing the federal government could do about home wine-making.

Before leaving Washington Woodcock said he planned to spend most of his time "in the field." He indicated that he anticipated much better results in enforcement of the law from close contact with the field forces. With the exception of week-end visits to Washington the director has been carrying on his national inspection trip virtually since he took office.

Reports Cooperation

In nearly every state and city so far visited Woodcock has found excellent local cooperation with the federal authorities, even in New York, where there is no state enforcement law, and in Chicago, reputed center for the illicit liquor industry in the mid-west.

"The federal prohibition machine is functioning effectively and smoothly," Woodcock said. "I do not attempt to say, however, how much liquor is being consumed, but progress is being made. Several big rings have been broken up recently and I believe the government's policy of going after the commercial violator is sound and is getting results."

FARMER LOSES IN FIGHT WITH TRIO

J. P. Robinson Injured When Unknown Callers Become Hilarious.

J. P. Robinson, a farmer of near Morral, came out the loser in an argument in which he attempted to order a man and two women, apparently pleasure bent, from his farm last night.

Going to the barn early last night, Robinson saw a car drive toward the building. The three occupants became so hilarious that he ordered them from the premises, he said today.

According to Robinson, one of the women left the car and attacked him, followed by the man, who struck him over the head with an automobile crank. Robinson is nursing a badly bruised head. The trio fled.

MARION DAIRYMEN TO ATTEND MEETING

Cleveland Exposition To Attract Thousands from All Parts of Country.

Local dairymen this week will attend the Dairy Industries Exposition in Cleveland, which opened today.

Charles H. Isaly, president of the Isaly Dairy Co., and four other officials of the concern will leave Wednesday to attend the exposition. The four are Harry Fowler, plant foreman; Marion Hinklin, milk department manager; Herman Unger, retail milk foreman, and Ed Glimpse, field manager.

W. M. Warner, manager of the North Central Ohio Dairy, Inc., left today to attend the convention.

The average American will consume 56½ gallons of milk this year and the bill will cost the nation $8,200,000, the delegates were told today by Dr. F. D. Wamsley of Chicago, president of the International Association of Milk Dealers.

More than 13,000 dairymen from all parts of the state and nation, as well as foreign countries, are expected to attend the exposition, which is a combination of four separate dairy conventions.

OFFICIALS OUTLINE NEED FOR TAX LEVY

City Hospital Taken as Topic for First of Series of Discussions.

$101.85 records show, despite the fact that meals served this year have averaged only 30¼ cents each in cost. Bills for meals alone at the hospital have averaged $910.19 a month this year.

"Several other funds are dangerously near the zero mark, and the year is not over by two and a half months. Balance on Oct. 15 in the fund for repairs, incidentals and insurance was $59; expenditures from this fund this year have averaged $280.89 a month. An additional load of $413.77 for insurance will fall due to this fund in December.

"Monthly expenditures for the upkeep of the operating room have averaged $418.71 but only $342.90 remains in the fund for the remainder of the year.

The laundry fund balance is $15.14, from which bills averaging $58.19 a month must be paid until Jan. 1.

Salary Fund Sufficient

"The fund for salaries will be sufficient to last the remainder of the year without transfers.

"Although operating costs of the hospital may appear high, they are not above the average for institutions of this kind. Last year the cost to keep a patient one day was $5.60, considered an average figure.

"Handicapped by the shortage of funds, the hospital administration has been obliged to refuse all charity work except in emergency accident cases and critical medical cases.

"The present lack of funds is not all that is bothering hospital authorities. Much needed work has been left undone, and the hospital has operated without considerable necessary equipment.

"Among improvements that should be made are the painting of the building inside and out, and repair where needed.

"The one-mill levy will not allow in any department a more extensive program than the one now being carried on, but will permit the city to maintain and service the institutions and equipment it already owns."

SCIENTISTS READY TO VIEW ECLIPSE

Equipment Installed on Island Where Sun Will Hide 93 Seconds.

By The Associated Press

NIUAFOU ISLAND, South Pacific, Oct. 20—Weeks of preparation for observance of the total eclipse of the sun here tomorrow brought announcements from members of scientific expeditions today that all equipment was ready for the event and weather conditions appeared favorable.

The expeditions from New Zealand and the United States naval observatory had cameras and spectographs ready for the 93 seconds during which the sun will be in total eclipse. The solar orb was observed today in 65 and 63-foot cemaras, insuring exact alighment for the work the scientists have traveled thousands of miles to accomplish.

The U. S. S. Tanager arrived here at daylight with the last unit of observers who will participate in the work. The ship also has seven women aboard, more than twice the number of white women ever before on the island at one time.

The weather for the past four days has been good, and indicates the scientists will have a strong chance of a clear sky to view the eclipse.

Caledonia Man Bound Over to Grand Jury

Charles Seckel, 67, of Caledonia, was bound over to the grand jury from municipal court this morning when he pleaded not guilty to a charge of grand larceny. His bond was fixed at $3,000.

He furnished bond immediately after the hearing, and was released.

Seckel is also awaiting action of the grand jury on a liquor possession charge.

COUNTY MINISTERS HEAR COLUMBUS MAN

Robert A. Doan Speaks at Meeting of Pastors' Association.

A growing lack of interest in the church, but no decline in the interest in religion was shown by Robert A. Doan of Columbus, secretary of the Laymen's League of Ohio, in his address on "The Layman's Convention," this morning at a meeting of the Marion County Ministerial association.

Mr. Doan sent out a questionnaire to 100 communities in the state, and received 600 replies on which he based his statement regarding the church and religion.

"The question that interests us now is 'Are You a Christian?' not 'What Label do you carry?'" he declared. "We have differences of opinion in many things but when it comes to Jesus we all agree. The preaching of Jesus will make an appeal to the laymen of the world. Unity will not come about by mergers, only the spirit of Jesus can bring it to pass," he said.

Mr. Doan indicated in his talk that the annual meeting of the league will be held in Columbus June 21-22, at the same time that the pastors' convention is being held. The general theme of the convention will be "Christian Unity," with Bishop Fred B. Fisher as one of the speakers.

Rev. Lawrence A. Wood, pastor of Trinity Baptist church, and president of the association, presided. The meeting opened with prayer by Rev. J. M. Fisher, director of the Lee Street Presbyterian church. Rev. C. V. Roop of First United Brethren church, Mr. Doan and by Rev. Wood.

A dinner meeting will be held Monday, Nov. 3 at 6:30 p. m., at Wesley M. E. church as a welcome into the association, of the new ministers in the county.

HEAVY SNOWS HIT REGIONS OF LAKES

grape crop, the Associated Press dispatch said.

Six men, the crew of coast guard cutter No. 229 which was reported aground off West Sister Island in the Port Clinton area, were believed marooned since Friday. Stormy weather baffled attempts of rescuers, although it was believed they were safely ashore and provided sufficient food and shelter.

Two passenger boats on Cleveland-Buffalo routes were held in Cleveland and Buffalo overnight, while a number of lake vessels made for various ports to wait out the stormy seas.

The snowfall was reported fairly heavy near Painesville and Ashtabula, while Cleveland had an intermittent fall last night and early today.

At the airport weather bureau in Cleveland today, the temperature was down to 29, and it was reported that at Dayton the reading was 21 and at Columbus 22.

Hundreds of unemployed sought shelter from the blustering weather. In Cleveland those out of work jammed wayfarers lodge, the public square shelter houses and central police station.

Record cold prevailed throughout most sections of the middle west with little or no immediate relief from the freezing cold wave predicted by weather forecasters.

The official forecast for today predicted minimum temperatures of 24 to 26 degrees in the Chicago area after yesterday's abnormal drop in the mercury to 27 degrees.

Report Several Killed in Oil Tanker Blast

By The Associated Press

TROY, N. Y., Oct. 20—An oil tanker exploded in the Hudson river near the barge canal here this morning with a detonation felt for many miles.

Early reports were that several men were killed and injured. Two tugs near the terminal caught fire.

The explosion was believed to have occurred on the gasoline-laden tanker Craig. The charred body of one of its crew could be seen after the blast, but flames kept rescuers at a distance.

SPEAKER WARNS OF RED PROPAGANDA

Well-Known Lecturer Addresses Marion Catholics at Open Meeting.

An appeal to the men and women of the Catholic church to explain the attitude of the church on subjects being agitated today, was made to Marion Catholics by Peter W. Collins, widely known lecturer who addressed an open meeting last night in the Elks hall under the auspices of Marion Council No. 671, Knights of Columbus.

Present conditions of unemployment with the menace of Red bolshevism were the underlying motives for Mr. Collins' lecture on "Catholic Action."

It is the duty of every Catholic man and woman, according to Mr. Collins, to talk quietly and with force to every unemployed man who rises to assail the government of the United States and cheers the Red governments. He should be pointed out the waywardness of such a policy, according to Mr. Collins.

He also spoke of the work of the Knights of Columbus lodge in wartime and peacetime and urged the men to step forward at this time to help the unemployed.

Don't scold. Ridicule.

The man who always seems to have money, dies, and it is found he leaves no estate.

Daily Proverb—"God and men think him a fool who brags of his own great wisdom."

New York City authorities anticipate that the illegal registrations there will run as high as 50,000. The political crooks of the metropolis can hardly be charged with lack of initiative.

The exports of France fell off $140,000,000 for the first eight months of the year and her imports a like amount for the same period, and yet, compared with other nations, France is enjoying wonderful prosperity.

A fifty-five-year-old retired contractor of New York City became so excited over a game of miniature golf he was playing that he dropped dead. That's our idea of 100 per cent. easy excitability.

David Lloyd George is urging that work be given Britain's idle and the dole abolished. Britain will probably find that a lot of her idle will be sufficiently incensed over the stopping of the dole without insult being added to injury through an offer to work.

The St. Louis hotel watchman, who set fire to the building he was employed to guard with a resultant loss of seven human lives, was last week sentenced to death. In the absence of legal provision for such a penalty as boiling alive in oil, or something like that, it probably was the best the court could do to meet the call of justice.

Yucatan is planning to burn up 100,000 bales of the state's 300,000 bales of sisal hemp to get rid of a surplus and relieve a crisis brought on by overproduction. In a word, Yucatan henequen growers are following much the same plan as that employed by some of our wheat growers in feeding wheat to stock.

Mr. Huckins, of Hancock, Wisconsin, who promised twenty-six per cent. profit annually to the suckers who turned over their money to him, last week drew a maximum prison sentence of seven years for failure to deliver the goods. But the Huckins experience will hardly prevent others from burning up their money in the same way. Mr. Phineas T. Barnum was wrong only in that he was too conservative in his estimate of the rate of birth.

Twice a Dictator in Mexico.

There are dictators and dictators. Some arise to meet an emergency and, having met it, retain their power so quietly as soon to drop from the public mind. There probably isn't one man in 100,000 who can tell the name of the dictator of Portugal, who is said to be one of the best of the lot. Some seize power to meet an emergency and retain power, looming large in the public eye. Benito Mussolini is the best known of this class. Then there is another class, the dictators who, called on to meet an emergency, answer the call, meet the emergency and at once retire to private life. Cincinnatus, who was twice called from his plow, was the first notable example of this class. But Mexico has a distinguished citizen who has twice been a dictator, yet we can not recall ever having seen him thus referred to in print.

Twice since his retirement from the presidency, General Calles has been dictator of Mexico. In retiring as president, Calles gave notice that, should need arise, he would be within the call of his country. It was more than notice; it was a pledge, and twice since he has kept it. Something like eighteen months ago, he went back to Mexico City to accept the war portfolio for the purpose of putting down the Escobar revolution, which he did, speedily and effectively. He may have been called secretary of war, but till the revolution was put down and he again retired to private life, he was dictator.

A month or two since, in answer to the call of President Rubio, he again returned to Mexico City, his presence being needed there owing to the impaired health of the president. Just what the trouble was seems shrouded in mystery, but Calles responded to the call and at once got busy. Within three weeks following Calles' notice, that those who would not cooperate with the government must get out of public life, Former Provisional President Portes Gil resigned as head of the National Revolutionary party; Luis Leon, resigned as secretary of industry, commerce and labor; Colonel Chazaro resigned as secretary to President Rubio and left for Europe, and Dr. Casaurane quit his job as chief of the federal district and followed Chazaro abroad. Calles' presence in Mexico City not only worked these changes in the government, but also caused a complete restoration of the health of Rubio. The wheels of government once again revolving smoothly, Calles bid Mexico City adieu and returned to one of his country estates.

Some real man and patriot, this Mexican general, Calles, who twice answers his country's call to put down revolution in one case and plotting and threatened revolution in another, and on each occasion surrenders the power which he easily could have maintained to retire to private life. It's just possible that the world has underestimated General P. E. Calles.

Work and Health.

Two very interesting facts have been developed by Dean K. Brundage, of the United States health service, as a result of his study and analyzation of a large volume of data on the extent of sickness among adults. One is that industrial workers are healthier than those of similar ages not industrially employed. The other is that the young employe, rather than the elderly, is prone to disease.

Another finding which will probably prove of interest at this time, when the liquor problem is holding countrywide attention, is that the excessive use of alcoholic stimulants is most pronounced among those doing the heaviest and most disagreeable work, and that miners, granite cutters, workers in cement plants and in some departments of the iron and steel industry show a high rate of sickness.

"The sickness statistics of industry," says Dr. Brundage in a report made for the Milbank Memorial fund, of New York, "represent to a surprising extent the younger adult ages," and he points out that in the country's manufacturing industries as a whole probably eighty per cent. of the men employed and from ninety to ninety-five per cent. of the women are under forty-five years of age.

"There is evidence in the age curves of illness," the report goes on, "that industrial workers are not representative of the general population from a physical standpoint. Rather, they appear to be, in the main, the flower of the general population in physique and constitution. Between fifteen and fifty, the age curve of illness in a general population group was found to mount more rapidly than in a typical industrial group. In the general population the trend is steadily upward from ages twenty to twenty-four and on; but among the industrial employes the frequency rates, based on disabilities lasting two working days or longer, rose more slowly from age twenty-five to forty, and then actually declined to about age sixty, after which the upward trend was resumed."

This failure of illness frequency to increase with age as rapidly among those who are employed in industry as among those of the general population is taken in the Brundage report to suggest that "the healthier individuals may tend to remain in industry to a greater extent than the sickly," which would leave a more favorably-selected group from the health standpoint in middle age and beyond than is found among "those just beginning industrial life."

Possibly this matter of favorable selection may explain why the industrial worker is freer from sickness than the general run of the population, but it will hardly explain the finding that the more elderly workers are freer from illness than the younger, especially if we are to assume as well taken the supposition that the sickly young worker retires from industry shortly after entering industrial employment.

Is it not possible that the worker in industry is freeer from sickness because of he fact that work is healthy; that it is needed to keep the body in healthy condition; that the worker interested in his work, has his mind taken off temporary minor ailments over which one whose mind was not engrossed in work would worry, thus accentuating his ailment and possibly leading to some trouble far more serious?

And when all is said, there is ever the possibility that workers, whether wage-earners or salaried employes, who rely on their employment for their livelihoods, work on despite trifling ailments which would lead those not gainfully employed to take to their beds and call doctors?

If we get Hon. Dwight W. Morrow correctly, he takes the view that the recent published statement, that he would maintain silence on the wet-or-dry question, would be interesting if it were true.

The federal radio commission has authorized the Columbia Broadcasting system to erect a 700-foot tower at its new fifty-kilowatt plant in New Jersey from which to suspend a verticle aerial, tests having demonstrated that greater power and clarity of broadcasting can be secured by that type of radiating system than is possible with the horizontal. "There's always the fly in the ointment." The voiceless movie guest artists may become audible now.

The Finnish Fascists polled 712,000 to 396,500 votes polled by the Socialists and Communists in the recent election in Finland. The growing popularity of the black shirt is simply amazing.

Beggars have disappeared from the streets of Mexico City since the authorities rounded up about 200, one day recently, and gave them thorough scrubbings. As we understand it, there is no legal inhibition in Mexico against cruel and unusual punishments.

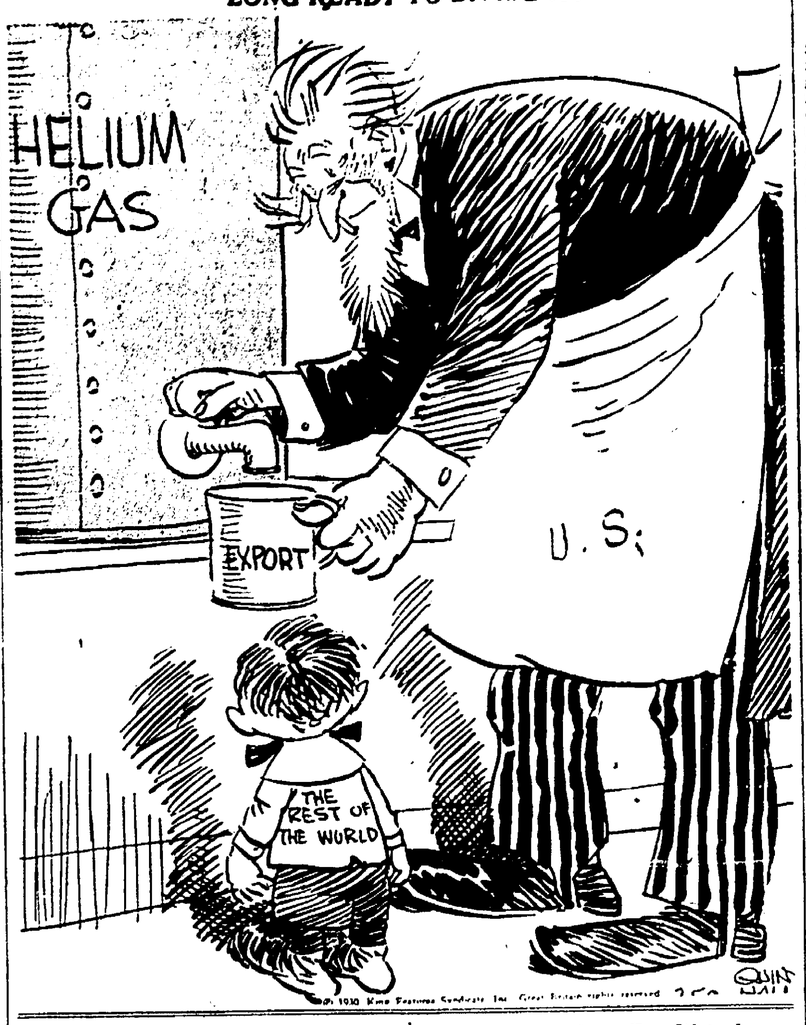
Announcement is made that New York City's tentative budget for 1931 is $615,669,038. Cost of government surely has been mounting during the last two decades. It wasn't so many years ago that the federal government was operated for something like that!

Among the Chinese paintings on glass shown in a London gallery is one dating back to about 1730 which depicts a young Chinese woman using a lipstick. It's a bit shocking to learn that the American girl is 300 years behind the times!

A Detroit man fell off a scaffold and bounced when he hit the sidewalk three stories below and didn't suffer a broken bone or a cut an examination at a nearby hospital disclosed. He explained that he had been falling ever since he was three years old and had become used to it. The only serious phase of the thing is that the publicity given the matter may start a series of falling marathons.

Former President Hjalmar Schacht, of the German reichsbank, this week told a New York City gathering that the talk about the possibility, that Germany might repudiate her debts, was that of the German politicians, and not that of German financial, industrial and business leaders. We haven't a bit of knowledge regarding the matter, but if the German politicians are anything like our own, it's easy to believe that they will talk even though they may not be wholly informed about that concerning which they are talking.

LONG READY TO DIVIDE IT.



Editorial Opinion.

A WELL-SPIKED MYTH.

Out of the uncertainty and fearfulness, often bordering on hysteria, that accompany business depression, disquieting rumors come in a flood. Unemployment vastly is exaggersted in mouth-to-mouth reports. Bad news travels fast; good news is put in pocket to be used in I-told-you-so fashion after recovery comes. This is all a part of the psychology that is the effect of bad times and more than half the cause of their continuance.

Nothing has a more depressing effect on the minds of millions of workers than reports that wage cuts are becoming general, that salaries everywhere are being scaled down with dropping commodity prices. It does not matter if the reports are false. Every one who takes them to heart practices stricter and stricter retrenchment, spending nothing, buying nothing, saving against the day when the income cut will reach his envelope.

This most undesirable type of rumor has been pretty general in recent months. Figures have been bundled about loosely to spread the belief that wage cuts in a national sense have been deep and wide. As a matter of fact, they have not. To a remarkable extent American business and industry, forced to lay off some employes and to employ others on part-time schedules, have responded to the national plea to sustain wages.

The reports of the National Industrial Conference board throughout the depression have stated facts and stood by conservative interpretation of facts, even when such interpretation was pessimistic. The most recent survey of the board indicates that in every recent month the increase in wages to workers on one hand have nearly balanced decreases on the other. During a period of several months wage reports compiled from more than 3,000,000 representative workers show that 31,565 of these received wage increases and 50,941 were affected by wage decreases. Approximately 25,000 more workers received cuts than received increases, or less than one cent. of the wage-earners for whom reports are available. Economically, this is the only way in which wage decrease can be fairly measured, and economically the decrease is negligible.

The board report disposes of one rumor that has been persistent and harmful. And while American business has not yet recovered its accustomed vigor, there is no longer good cause for the timidity that keeps regularly-employed workers from satisfying their needs and, in turn, keeps other workers from supplying those needs.—Cincinnati Enquirer

A Slur That Proved a Boomerang.

BY J. H. GALBRAITH.

Often an unfortunate slur upon a party or its candidate gives the opposing party an opportunity to counter with a slogan of telling effect upon political enemies in the campaign. Exactly such a thing occurred as to the Whigs and the Democrats in the campaign of 1840 when Ohio made her first contribution of a president to the United States in the person of General William Henry Harrison.

Twenty-eight years had elapsed since the war of 1812 in which General Harrison won his greatest fame, and in the meantime, he had settled on his farm in North Bend, Ohio, from which place he was not much heard of. A new generation had come upon the scene which was not familiar with his public services.

Two sources of the slur which gave General Harrison's friends an opportunity to counter with good effect are given. One is the Baltimore American and the other the Baltimore Republican, but the statements concerning the candidate are substantially the same and if separately made would seem to have emanated from the same mind.

They both referred to General Harrison as a man of no importance, no ability and no ambition. Both of them declared that no doubt he would be perfectly willing, for $2,000 a year, to spend the rest of his life in his log cabin in Ohio. And one of them added "and drink hard cider the rest of his life." The other made no reference to the cider.

On the 20th day of January, 1840, at Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, a transparency was carried in a political parade staged by General Harrison's friends which presented the picture of a long cabin, and it proved striking and effective. Most people, in the West still lived in log cabins. The idea spread like wildfire, and soon log cabin and cider clubs were organized everywhere and log cabins built upon wagons were drawn in Harrison parades in all parts of the country.

Prayer—"May I with this be satisfied, and glory in Thy name."

Never Disregard an Ear Disturbance.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Behind each ear can be felt a bony prominence. This is the so-called mastoid bone. Its interior consists of numberless spaces or cells, not unlike the cells in the honeycomb. The largest of these spaces is known as the "mastoid antrum,' which opens into the middle ear.

When a person is in normal health, the mastoid cells never give trouble. But they are so located that when an infection enters, and their membrane lining becomes inflamed, the trouble may be considered serious. When such an inflammation takes place it is known as "mastoiditis."

Not only does the mastoid antrum communicate with the middle ear, but in its turn the middle ear communicates with the nose through the "Eustachian tube.' This is the passageway between the nose and the ear.

There is a continuous membranous lining running through all of these cavities. That is why an infection in the nose, from a cold or influenza, may find its way to the ear. In consequence, there may be inflammation of the middle ear and mastoid cavities.

At first there are the symptoms of a cold. The nose may run, the ears feel "stopped up," and there are occasional twinges of pain in one ear. A gathering may form in the ear, and in a day or two this breaks, permitting a fluid to discharge. Usually the pain ends here and the discharge and inflammation soon disappear.

There are other cases, however, that are more serious. The symptoms grow worse and the skin over the prominence behind the ear grows red. The swelling increases until the ear is pushed forward. The patient has fever, restlessness, and may be delirious.

Between the mastoid cells and the cavity of the skull is a layer of bone, no thicker than a half dozen sheets of paper. This thinness of bone offers rather slight protection to the brain, which is situated just within the skull. In the adult it is easier for the pus to burrow through this bony wall into the brain than it is to escape outwardly into the soft tissue behind the ear.

When pus forms here it becomes necessary to perform an operation to permit drainage. The pus must be removed or serious trouble follows.

Very often mastoiditis results from some infection as the result of swimming in polluted waters. Recent press notices tell of swimmers in the waters surrounding one of our great cities, who are sufferers from mastoiditis caused by infection from these dangerously polluted waters.

Such bathing is a very common cause of this disease. It points a lesson to everybody never to go into waters anywhere that are not known to be pure.

A common cold or a case of influenza, no matter how mild, should not be neglected. Give yourself such considerate treatment that the trouble may disappear quickly. If a cold hangs on see a doctor. Do not neglect earache. You can not regard it lightly. It should be attended to at once.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES

TONY S. Q—Is it harmful when washing the hair to rinse it in cold water?

2—Is it harmful to drink three glasses of cold water at one time?

A—No.

2—All right if taken slowly and between meals.

• • •

T. H. H. Q—What do you advise for head noises? I have this trouble in one of my ears.

A—Try to locate the underlying cause first of all. Catarrhal conditions are often responsible for trouble of this kind. For full particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

• • •

MRS. M. D. J. Q—What would cause a darting pain in the foot which runs up to the knees as well.

2—What can be done for a crawling sensation in the back?

A—This is probably due to neuritis. Try to find the underlying source of infection. Heat and proper diet should give relief.

2—Probably due to a nervous condition. Improve your health and you will notice general improvement.

Jules Verne.

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON.

In all ages we have had prophets of science. The fortunates who in imagination foretell the future. Edward Bellamy astounded the last generation with "Looking Backward." Wells has astounded ours with his visions of the coming age. Today Haldane and his copyist, the late Lord Birkenhead, foretell the scientific marvels of the twenty-first century. Guesses are free, and if the guesses never come true, at least the guesses will not be alive to know it.

The most fascinating and ingenious of all these foretellers of future scientific wonders was the late Jules Verne. Like Haldane, he was scientifically trained; although not a scientist by profession, as is Haldane. Verne made a far-ranging study of scientific principles and discoveries; and his magnificent hunches were soundly based, for the most part, on established scientific data. He was a novelist by profession; but today he is honored as a prophet of undersea navigation, of aviation and of ballistics. Only the other day, Professor Richet of the Institute de France paid high tribute to Jules Verne before the French Geographical society. It was not the imaginative artist he took occasion to praise, but the prophet of aeronautical science. Verne not only foresaw the airplane and the dirigible, but also the helicopter. Fifty years ago, aeronautical science received a great impetus from the imaginative novels of Verne, especially from his imaginative creation, the flying machine to which he gave the name of Albatross.

These were by no means the dark ages in aeronautical history when Verne began to write of future scientific marvels. Lilienthal, a famous name in the history of aviation, and others were making hair-raising experiments with gliders. It was an era of enthusiastic experimentation. A little later— to be precise, in 1886—Verne published his fascinating little book, "Robur le Conquerant." It was the fruit of prolonged studies of the possibilities of mechanical flight. In the book is described a contest between advocates of two types of aircraft—heavier than air and lighter than air. This is a contest which is going on, with many thrilling incidents, all around us today. Verne stages a contest between the Albatross, and a dirigible called the Go-Ahead. Verne concluded, as Coste concludes, that "as to the future of aerial locomotion, it belongs to the airship—airplane—not to the aerostat—dirigible."

Verne filled his books with ingenious scientific explanations and mathematical calculations, and glibly glosses over the difficulties which have not yet been surmounted. The authorities which he cites show his extensive reading regarding the problem of flight. He ranges from the classic Archytas, inventor of the kite, to Leonardo da Vinci, from Cayley and Stringfellow to Henson and Edison.

The Albatross was an ingenious aircraft, containing basic features of the modern multi-motored airplane. The motive-power was not gasoline, but electricity. Fascinated by the achievements of Edison, Verne went so far as to say: "Electricity will one day be the soul of the industrial world"—an astoundingly accurate prophecy.

The mechanism employed on the Albatross is in well-established use today, or in process of adoption and perfection for general air travel. There was the propeller in the rear, which pushed the plane; and in front the tractor airscrew. These mechanical devices gave the Albatross motion in a horizontal direction. For movement in a vertical direction the Albatross employed the helicopter principle. Verne defined the helicopter as "propellers on vertical axes."Thus the Albatross, with this device, anticipated the autogiro of today. Although Verne can not be said to have contributed specifically by inventions to aeronautics, he opened the eyes and dilated the minds of men with vast possibilities for the future. As T. J. C. Martyn says, he sowed the seeds of air-mindedness.—Copyright, 1930, International Feature Service, Inc.

Twenty Years Ago.

It was Thursday, October 20.

Some New York society woman caused a sensation, the story being noised about, by smoking cigarets following a dinner given in honor of Mayor Yukio Ozaki, of Tokio, by the Japanese Society of New York.

David B. Hill, Democratic political leader, died at his home at Wolfert's Roost, New York.

A northbound Hocking Valley passenger went into the ditch at a point about 900 feet south of Harpster as the result of the locomotive tender jumping the track. Two passengers were killed and twenty-two injured, among the latter being Dr. J. W. McMurray and Mrs. M. J. Sullivan, of Marion. One of the injured died shortly after the accident.

City of Budapest.

BY TEMPLE MANNING.

Until the World war came along and a dent in its growth, Budapest was becom one of the most important tourist centers Europe. A part of Austria-Hungary, it a serious rival to Vienna for the night-championship of Europe. Beautiful wo rich foods and rare wines furnished a ba ground for the traveler with a well-filled pa which made Paris and Berlin seem mild in c parison.

Even now, for those who do not go t European city solely for the night life, Budap has many attractions. Perhaps the most teresting part of the city is the line of bu quays on the left bank of the Danube, tending for two miles and a half, and li with imposing buildings. The most import is the Franz Josef quay, named after the emperor of Austria-Hungary. It is here t the famous cafes and restaurants are to found and it also is the favorite promenade.

The most famous street is the Innere Ri strasse, a circle of wide boulevards on the of the old wall. Wide, shaded streets, like Kiraly Utoza, the Kerrepesi Ut and the U Ut, form the lines of division between the tricts. One of the most beautiful streets the Andrassy Ut, on which will be found magnificent new buildings of the city. Th are also many magnificent parks, or squares, they are called there, usually containing a a statue of one of Hungary's celebrated ch acters.

The royal palace in what was Buda bef the two towns of Buda and Pesth were c solidated was built by Maria Theresa in 1 1771. It was partly burned in 1849, but h been restored since. It was here in the co chapel that the royal Hungarian robes w kept, including the famous crown of Stephen. Those royal robes have not had airing since the Austrian empire fell ap when the German allies met defeat in t World war. Hungary is now a kind of a public with Admiral Horthy as dictator.

But Budapest is beginning to look up aga and those who have been there recently rep that the beautiful women have reappeared, t gigolas are very much on the job; those w want it and have the money to buy it can f food and wines as good as ever before, and good time can be had by all.

The Hungarians, the Magyars, that is or t upper classes, are hospitable generous and a not given to the gouging practices whi caused a falling-off in the tourist travel France this year.

The Stars Say—

For Tuesday, Oct. 21

THE stellar mutations bearing rule on this day point to important move of major magnitude. There may be events moving to high climaxes, although the final outcome depends upon tactful relations with superiors, employers and those who might be able to advance these crises. Fine judgment and acumen may move affairs to the goal of the ambitions. Make changes with precaution. Sign papers warily.

Those whose birthday it is are assured of a year of great opportunities, with many channels moving to the goal of high ambitions. But all must be managed with sagacity, preserving the confidence and assistance of those in places of power and authority, especially safeguarding the employment. Sign papers discreetly and protect the finances by conservatism and ability.

A child born on this day will be splendidly endowed to attain success and good position in life, but it may be dispersed to be extravagant and reckless with its funds and to incline to run counter to its best interests in dealing with employers or those in places of power.

Contest Attracts Interest of Literary Club Members

INTEREST of club women is centering for the present on the literary contest which will feature the meeting of the Marion County Federation of Women's clubs scheduled for Tuesday evening Nov. 4 at Hotel Harding. Plans for the meeting are in charge of Mrs. E. H. Morgan, literature chairman, assisted by literature chairmen of the various clubs.

Awards will be presented the club having what is judged to be the best short story and poem submitted for the meeting. The contest may be conducted according to the club's own individual choice and all papers may be submitted to the judges or the clubs may hold contests of their own, submitting the stories and poems in club meetings previous to the federation session, Mrs. Morgan states. The awards will be made in first and second prizes and honorable mention.

Members of the executive board will meet Tuesday for luncheon at 11:45 o'clock at the Marion club.

CHAPTER 14

Rose Probes Her Past

MR. HOWARD LECKETT, private detective, looked up at the highly-rouged young woman whom he employed to receive callers.

"A lady to see you, sir," she said. "What's her name? Has she got an appointment?"

"I didn't ask, sir."

"Well why didn't you? How many times have I got to tell you. . . . Well, never mind. Show her in."

Rose Conaldine's entrance, made him forget his anger. Blonde, baby-eyed, plenty of perfume and silk stocking and lip-stick, she tripped toward him smiling and extended her card. Mr. Leckett placed a chair for her and glanced at the card.

"Miss Conaldine?" he murmured. "And what have you come to see me about?"

Rose gave him a look of childish helplessness. Mr. Leckett became almost fatherly.

"I always tell my clients that this room is like the consulting-room of a physician or the office of a lawyer," Mr. Leckett encouraged her. "Everything that passes their lips becomes absolutely confidential."

"Thank you," she said. "What I really want is, all the information you can get me about—my—well, parents."

"What was your father's name?"

"Conaldine. . . . I don't know his first name," she added as Mr. Leckett appeared dissatisfied.

"You're sure that was his name?" he persisted. "I ask because it's such an unusual one. Are you sure there isn't an aunt or uncle who'd tell you all you went to know?"

"I have no relatives," returned Rose, stiffly. "Perhaps it would be best if you'd just let me tell my story in my own words."

"By all means," said Mr. Leckett. "It's a sad story," said Rose, producing a scent-drenched handkerchief. "But I mustn't be silly and take up a lot of your time. . . . For the first nine years of my life, Mr. Leckett, I was one of the—the foundlings at the Sarah Sidley home. I was called Alice Evans there because they just handed out names like they handed out clothes . . . you're sure all this will be kept absolutely confidential?"

"S'lutely," agreed Mr. Leckett.

"Well, one day when I was about nine the matron sent for me and told me that it had been found out who I was. I was Rose Conaldine and my parents were dead and my guardian, Mr. Perle, had come to take me away."

"Perle?"

"He's a lawyer. Perle and Kevern."

"It's a very old established firm," said Mr. Leckett, doubtfully. "I mean there wouldn't be likely to be any mystery about anything Mr. Perle had to do with."

Rose flushed crimson.

"There may be two opinions about Mr. Perle," she said. "But I can see you think I'm wasting your time and I'm beginning to think p'raps I'm wasting my own."

"Nothing of the kind," protested Mr. Leckett, urgig her back into her chair. "It's part of my job to be cautious."

"Well, Mr. Perle took me away from the home," went on Rose, partly mollified. "And he sent me to one school after another and abroad—with different friends of his—during vacations. The last school was the best fun—we did pretty well what we liked."

"They certainly know how to turn out the finished article," said Mr. Leckett with gallantry.

"At all these schools," pursued Rose, still further mollified, "it was always taken for granted I should inherit a lot of money when I was 21. I mean, the principals and the others and the girls' parents all seemed to know about it. I thought Mr. Perle must have told them. And the people I used to travel about with in the vacations, they always seemed to know about it."

"Did you ever ask them for any details? Who had left it to you and so on?"

"I guess I did but they never knew. And I suppose I thought Mr. Perle would be the person to tell me. Only, I never seemed to get a chance of asking him. He kept me in school until I was over 18."

"And then?"

"Then he sent for me to come and live with him."

"But you're not 21 yet, Miss Conaldine."

"Oh, yes, I am. I was 21 very nearly a year ago."

"And—the fortune—?"

"That's what I want you to find out."

Mr. Leckett tapped his teeth with his fountain-pen.

"Now we mustn't go too fast," he aid. "I don't doubt a word you say, Miss Conaldine. But—Perle and Kevern is an old-established firm and we don't want to look foolish. . . . What has Mr. Perle got to say about it all?"

"I didn't ask him much the first two years I was home," confessed Rose. "I'd got it into my head, you see, that when I came of age he'd hand over the money and the story, all complete."

"And he didn't?"

She shook her head.

"Just wished me many happy returns. The old miser!"

After that, I take it, you asked him what you wanted to know?"

"Of course I did! I've been asking him ever since! But he's so slippery. Says he can't remember anything about my mother, not even her maiden name. Says my father died in obscurity and I got sent to the home by mistake and as soon as he—Mr. Perle—found out, he came and looked after me. Says I ought to be grateful."

"Well, if there is no fortune—and it really does seem just a legend—" said Mr. Leckett slowly.

Again Rose flushed.

"I'm not asking you to go and find me a bag of gold" she snapped. "If it was all a mistake, well, it was a mistake and it's just too bad. Only, it does get on my nerves—all this mystery. That's what I want you to look into for me. I'm not trained to do any kind of work and I just sit all day wondering and wondering. After all you say yourself that Conaldine is an unusual name. It ought not to be hard to find out something."

Mr. Leckett looked at her oddly.

"Conaldine," he repeated. Then he became busy and extremely cheerful. "I'll do my best" he assured her. "Will you leave me your address? 144 West Seventy-Ninth? Shall I report to you there?"

"Oh no. They read my letters, I'm sure. But you could 'phone to me to call here."

When Rose departed Mr. Leckett's young woman again entered his private office.

"I'm leaving," she announced. "Right away. I don't like the way I'm spoken to, and I don't like the work here either."

Mr. Leckett didn't seem unduly perturbed.

"It's okay with me, sister," he asserted, striding past her into another room where a crippled youth sat among stacks of newspapers.

"Hicky," said Mr. Leckett, "Conaldine."

The cripple turned in his chair and reached up to one of a row of large scrap-books alphabetically labelled. After a moment's jerking of the stiff, brown pages, he handed the volume over.

"Thought I knew the name," murmured Mr. Leckett, reading the cuttings. "Ransacked the country for him, didn't they? And they never found him."

Mr. Leckett's young woman did not even wait to collect the money due her. She hurried to the elevator, entered a telephone booth in the lobby below, and called Perle and Kevern, attorneys.

"I want Mr. Perle," she said. "Tell him it's about his rose-trees. Mr. Perle? Reporting as arranged sir. The lady in question has visited the firm in question. Left 10 minutes ago. Conversation exactly as you expected, except that she said her letters were read. Any further instructions? Thank you, I'm glad to know you're satisfied. No sir, the fee is ample. Goodby."

Love's Reawakening

The Story of a Wife's Triumph Over Jealousy

BY ADELE GARRISON

Veritzen Reveals His Enmity Toward Mary

I HAD accomplished the apparently impossible! I had put Philip Veritzen in a quandary! Never before had I seen him at a loss for words. But as he listened to my query concerning his attitude toward Colin Cameron's "talkie" role for Mary, if she were, as formerly, a potential Veritzen star, he was shaken out of his poise as if it were the shell of a nut popping open, and started—rather—glared—at me with knitted brows and lowering face.

Apparently unperturbed, I waited quietly for his answer, knowing the value of silence once one has aped a conversational bolt. It was but a second, such is the iron will of the man, before he had banished all trace of irritation and was looking at me with a calmly judicial face.

"The question is a little beside the mark, is it not?" he asked. "Miss Mary is not a potential Veritzen star.'

There was a note of finality in his voice that sent a rippling chill down my spine. The softening of his attitude, the air of willingness to be placated which I had fancied were to be seen in his attitude, were distinctly absent at this moment. I suddenly found it a hard task to keep my own face and voice non-committal.

Veritzen Reluctantly Answers

"I am aware of that," I told him, crisply. "That was not my question, if you will pardon me the reminder. I asked you what your attitude would be toward the offer if she were still in your good graces?"

He ignored the shaft and waited for a long second before he answered me.

"Your talents are wasted in any other profession than the legal one," he told me at last, smiling a bit grimly. "As a cross-examiner permit me to doff my best topper to you."

"But you haven't yet answered my question," I retorted with an answering smile.

"You will drag it out, won't you?" he countered ruefully, "even though you know the answer already. I have had one unalterable rule through all my training of young women to hold stellar places in my organization. They must never appear in any other capacity upon any stage. I have been false to my own dictum only once, and that, as you remember, was for Miss Mary. I agreed to overlook the fact that she had appeared as the masked dancer, because there was only a chance in a million that anyone beyond our own circle would ever know of it. But this is different. An appearance in a talkie role would effectually spoil the value of a Veritzen star. I could not permit it."

"Thank you," I said, "I really am most grateful to you for answering me so frankly."

"I could no nothing else," he returned, "but—may I venture the opinion that Miss Mary will be making a grave mistake if she does not accept the offer. I am surprised at Cameron's making it to an inexperienced girl. It is a wonderful opportunity for any girl——"

"Save a potential Veritzen star," I interposed slyly, and he laughed ruefully.

"There you have me," he said, but I hardly heard him, for at the other end of the room I saw Dicky framed in the doorway. I had figured that I would have ample time to finish my perfectly innocuous colloquy with Mr. Veritzen before his return with Noel. He must have awakened Noel and dashed downstairs again immediately, leaving the boy to follow at his leisure. And his glowering look at me told me conclusively that he comprehended the ruse I had used to get him away from the dancing-room while I talked to Philip Veritzen.

There was but one thing to do, and I did it promptly. Lifting my hand I gave him an imperative signal to come to me, smiling broadly the while. He hesitated for an instant, then walked rapidly across the floor, with a most creditable answering grin.

"Oh, Dicky!" I exclaimed a bit breathlessly as he came up to me. "Mr. Veritzen says I am wasting my talents in any other profession than the legal one, and that I would make a splendid cross-examiner."

My employed played upp beautifully.

"You should have heard her pin me down a minute ago. I had to come right out into the open and tell my inmost thoughts."

"Oh, the girl's good!" Dicky averred with a little laugh. "But what's it all about, or can't it be told?"

"That's why I brought you over here," I told him with a little grimace, "if you keep quiet for ten consecutive seconds."

"Shoot!" he retorted, pressing his lips tightly together in ludicrous fashion, and I told him of Colin Cameron's offer to Mary of a talkie role and of Mr. Veritzen's approval of the scheme, and of the question he had just answered. I emphasized the fact—without making it too obvious—that I had had no opportunity to speak to Dicky about the offer since Mary had told me of it, and finished by asking him with apparent guilelessness for his opinion of the offer. I felt quite Machiavellian as I uttered the last words, for I had two distinct ends to serve by that question. I wished to placate Dicky by asking his advice in front of Mr. Veritzen, and I wished to impress my employer with the fact that Dicky, not I, would be ultimately responsible for whatever decision Mary might make about Colin Cameron's offer.

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

ME and Jubilee would hate to be skunks. I am glad boys' skin ain't worth anything. My ant says boys aren't worth skinning. I bet she is sorry they ain't. But she almost skinned me yesterday morning giving me my Sunday morning wash, when I had let Jubilee down out of the hay loft and had went in and got the pail and out and milked the cows and in and fed my face. It wasn't very cold in the barn. The smell we got from the skunks was about gone. That was because they hadn't landed on us. We got the smell from being near to them.

My grandfather said at breakfast that when he was in the war and they were surrounded by the enemy they had a empty balloon, but they didn't have anything to make a fire with so they could fill it with hot air and send someone for reinforcements, and they were all wondering what to do when someone discovered a skunk hole, and they put the mouth of the balloon over the hole, and then they hammered over the hole till the old father skunk came out to see what the matter was and when he got into the balloon and they could see the bulge where he was moving around my grandfather kicked him and made him mad, and he let out so much smell that it filled the balloon and it sailed up into the air and over the enemy, and when the enemy began to shoot at him and he heard the bullets sing he wanted to go higher. So he reached up and gave a punch at the lowest part of the balloon where the skunk was, and that made the skunk so mad that it let out a lot more smell and stretched the balloon till it tore and enough of it came out so that the balloon went right down amongst the enemy, and when they rushed up to grab the balloon and him it made the skunk mad again so that all the enemy were suffocated, and he walked off and all his men came running and they all got away. Then my ant said, "If it was a hot-air balloon I know another skunk that could of inflated it." And my grandfather said, "Yes, but you weren't there." And that made my ant so mad that was the reason she washed me so hard.

Today was Monday and there was a cold drizzly rain falling by the time I got the cows to the pasture, and that made the girls sorry they had come along, the boys were already sorry. We could have told how the creek was for a swim if they hadn't been there.

PAIR OF N.C.O. GAMES ON SCHEDULE

SPORTS

BY BOB KIRKPATRICK

MUCH has been said in the past and probably much more will be said in the future about how blocking makes a great ball carrier out of an otherwise good or even just average backfield man. There is probably no better example of this or rather the lack of it than on the 1930 Harding grid team. Inefficient blocking has probably spelled the doom of more six pointers for the Presidents than any other offensive tactic.

Undoubtedly there will be those who will dispute the claim that the speed of Harding's backs have matched or nearly so that of any set of backs faced this season. However, the speed of the local backs has been in most cases rendered futile by poor blocking on the part of interfering team mates. Speed doesn't get a ball carrier very far without some one to clear the path of the carrier.

Dick Wright and Bob Bush are both faster than the average back and Wright especially is unusually shifty and elusive. Dick Morgan, while not the speed merchant that Wright is, is also a slippery ball carrier.

Time and again though these boys have gotten by the first line defense and were apparently on their way to a long gain when weak interference allowed an opposing tackler to spill the interference and drag down the ball toter. We believe that if Harding's football players would absorb even a fair portion of the blocking drill that Bohyer has been attempting to impress upon them that Harding will cause their remaining N. C. O. opponents a lot of difficulty.

"A hunting we will go," will be the password for about 10 days starting this morning for a large group of sportsmen who are in Marion for the annual field trials of the Southern Ohio and the Miami Valley Dog Associations. No doubt a large number of local sportsmen will also take time off from their routine work to follow the dogs.

The trials which are expected to bring several hundred sportsmen and also well over a hundred dogs to the city are being held in the region near Agosta. The daily chase starts at 8 a. m. each day from the stables of the Guthery farm one mile west of Marion.

The trials promise to be a spectacle well worth the time of anyone. Outdoor sportsmen will make no mistake in attending all of the trials possible.

HARDING TO BATTLE BUCYRUS IN EFFORT TO GAIN FIRST WIN

Galion Meets Elyria in Night Fray; Ashland Entertains Shelby Eleven.

CANNONADING will be heavy along the gridiron fronts of the N. C. O. league this week-end with two league engagements scheduled and one non league game on the books. Harding will tackle Bucyrus in a league battle and Ashland will entertain Shelby. Galion will take on Elyria, a non league foe, following its 19-6 beating of Shelby. The Elyria-Galion mixup is an nocturnal affair with Galion the under dog despite its good showing in the N. C. O. league. Mansfield is not scheduled for action this week.

Just at present Galion is leading the pack with two victories and one tie game but it is probable that after Saturday the best it will be able to claim is a tie for first. If Ashland puts the skids under the Shelby aggregation the Hilltoppers will be in a deadlock with the same record as the Orangemen.

Harding Meets Bucyrus

Harding and Bucyrus will be staging a battle royal with the eventual outcome about even in spite of the woefully weak showing of Harding in games thus far. One thing fairly certain about the Harding Bucyrus game is that some dazzling runs are likely to be uncorked with Talbott in the Bucyrus backfield and Wright sporting the Red and Black togs. Both are plenty fast.

On the basis of previous showings Galion is named to lose to Elyria and Shelby to Ashland this week end. Until Harding goes through a couple of practice sessions no prediction will be made. It looks like the two are fairly even at present.

BIG GREEN LEADS

Dartmouth Team Tops Scoring List with 225 Points; Cornell Second.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20—The Big Green outfit of Dartmouth is setting the pace in scoring on the eastern gridiron.

With 225 points the Hanover eleven today held a wide margin over their nearest rival, Cornell, who has accounted for 180 points.

Colgate is next in line with 185, while Carnegie Tech holds fourth place with 165.

WESTERN TEAMS WIN MAJORITY OF GAMES

Notre Dame Wallops Carnegie; Badgers Humble Penn; Maroons Beaten by Florida.

By International News Service

CHICAGO, Oct. 20—One thing middle west football fans are agreed on today is that gridiron machines out this way can more than hold their own against the pride of the east.

Another matter not quite so clear was just which one of the present big four, Northwestern, Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota, will be crowned king of the western conference in this fall's race.

Four Irish gentleman from Notre Dame with names which do not sound Irish at all covered themselves with glory Saturday in the annual clash with Carnegie, defeating the strong eastern team, 21 to 6.

Carideo, Brill, Schwartz and Savoldi made up this "second four horsemen" backfield which sent the theories of dopesters spinning and kept Notre Dame's home record clear.

Wisconsin, taking the day off from Big Ten affairs, showered Pennsylvania with trouble and touchdowns, emerging the victor by a 27 to 0 score. The Badgers proved too powerful and too alert and kept the fast-moving Penn team in hot water most of the game with their varied offense and their stubborn defensive wall and hawk-like ball following.

Wildcats, Wolves Lead

As Big Ten matters stand on this quiet Monday Northwestern and Michigan are leading the race with two victories each, closely followed by Wisconsin and Minnesota who have each won one and lost one.

Purdue, defending champions, and Ohio State have also won a game apiece, but the Boilermaker eleven have been beaten once and the Buckeyes twice. Chicago, Illinois and Iowa have one defeat each and the hapless Hoosiers a pair of them.

Saturday produced its surprise, the foremost being the 32 to 0 drubbing the vaccinated Northwestern team handed Illinois. The comparatively green Illini team tried to get going but couldn't. The old punch was missing and eight times the Wildcats took the ball on downs.

Michigan moved another rung upward at the expense of Ohio State, and again Newman, sophomore quarterback, covered himself with glory by using a strategy that spelled the difference between victory and defeat.

Purdue Tops Iowa

Purdue hit its winning stride by defeating Iowa, 20 to 0, thus giving the Hawkeyes a conference record of .000 for their one-game in the Big Ten.

Minnesota, still the dark horse of this year's grid derby, almost went down under Indiana's pugnacious stand, but managed to come through with a 6 to 0 victory.

Chcago, still crippled and handicapped by injuries, took it on the chin 19 to 0 from Florida.

Wisconsin and Purdue take the splotlight this week in the Big Ten headliner at Lafayette, Ind. It will be Wisconsin's' acid test in the 1930 conference and the Badgers are expected to open wide with the versatile drive that has spilled Chicago and Pennsylvania.

The only other conference clash this Saturday brings Illinois to Michigan, and after the Illini showing Saturday Michigan is favored to continue toward the championship.

Big Ten Standings

Northwestern	2	0	1.000
Michigan	2	0	1.000

BIG THREE TEAMS TO PROVIDE HEADLINERS

Eastern Games To Be Topped by Harvard-Dartmouth Battle in Boston.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 20—In a trio of games with rivals of long standing the old "Big Three" will provide the fireworks of eastern football play next Saturday.

Harvard will meet Dartmouth at Boston in a renewal of competition inaugurated in 1882. Dartmouth still undefeated and the highest scoring aggregation in the east, may ride a slight favorite but Harvard, although defeated by Army, showed plenty of strength.

Yale clashes with Army at New Haven and Princeton meets Navy in a game of little importance in the championship ratings but dear to the two schools.

Pittsburgh hopes to fill its stadium for the first time when it takes up the task at which its neighbors from Carnegie Tech failed, trying to stop Notre Dame.

Penn State and Colgate, meeting for the first time, will present a pair of strong teams, although neither is in the undefeated class. Brown and Holy Cross enjoy a similar ranking.

New York university and Fordham will clash in New York. Pennsylvania will meet Lehigh, which gave the Quakers a close game last year, Columbia will play Williams. Cornell has an open date.

GALION TRIMS SHELBY IN LEAGUE BATTLE

Orangemen Take Easy Game from Whippets; Stout Stars for Winners.

With George Stout, quarterback of the Orangemen pacing his team throughout the entire game, Galion plastered a 19 to 6 beating on the Shelby Whippets Saturday afternoon in the first league engagement of the year for the Users. The winners outplayed the Whippets most of the time holding them on downs whenever the Shelby team threatened to score.

Galion tallied early in the game only to have Shelby display its only real offense of the game to tie the score. After the one Whippet score Galion dominated the entire game.

Stout raced 91 yards for a touchdown on the kickoff on a deceptive formation. His team huddled until the Shelby defensive men were almost upon them and allowed Stout to circle the entire Whippet team for a score.

The lineups:

Galion (19)		Shelby (6)
Hoekstra	L.E.	Schiffler
Logan	L.T.	Southard
Dewalt	L.G.	Munchhousen
Yunkers	C	Wynans

RED CAT MENTOR TO REBUILD GRID LINEUP

Western Reserve Coach Not Satisfied with Team's Play Against Ohio U.

By International News Service

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 20—Drastic changes in the lineup of the Western Reserve football team were promised here today by Coach Gordon Locke, following the poor exhibition of his team against Ohio university last Saturday when the Redcats received a 47-to-0 drubbing.

Locke declared that he was going to "scrap" the team that has played in the first games this season, and will start building a new squad "with men who, though they may not have the ability possessed by some of the others, will be in there fighting every minute."

Many new faces will be seen in the lineup when the team takes the field against Carnegie Tech at league park here next Saturday, according to Coach Locke.

TO SWITCH CAMPS

By International News Service

CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 20—Arrangements were being made today by President Weil, of the Cincinnati Reds to change the club's spring training camp from Orlando, Fla., to Tampa. It was pointed out that exhibition games would be greatly facilitated due to the shorter distance and easier accessibility to other ball clubs at Tampa.

Mike McTigue, Pat McDonald and Matt McGrath, New York's famous "three Macks" appeared together there recently at an athletic dinner.

NINE OHIO COLLEGE GRID TEAMS REMAIN IN UNBEATEN CLASS

Ashland Only Eleven Whose Goal Is Uncrossed; Two Have Tie Games.

By International News Service

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 20—Only nine Ohio college football teams remain undefeated today as the 1930 grid campaign reached the half-way mark.

Those who fell into the defeat column for the first time, over the week-end, are Wittenberg, Wilberforce, Xavier and Otterbein.

Akron, Ashland, Heidelberg, Muskingum, Bowling Green, Case and Capital have perfect records while Ohio university and Urbana have had their season smirched by ties. Ashland has yet to have its goal line crossed and stands alone in that respect.

There are also nine Buckeye teams who have not won a game thus far. They are Cedarville, Kent State, Rio Grande, Western Reserve, Baldwin-Wallace, Hiram, Denison, Toledo and Bluffton.

With one excention, all of Saturday's game ended according to our predictions, this one upset, if it may be called that, was Mount Union's 25-to-0 victory over Oberlin. Oberlin was predicted to win the game. The Alliance team showed a lot that must have been hidden until Saturday.

Michigan turned back Ohio State, 13 to 0, by a brilliant passing attack which the Buckeyes were unable to stop. The victory was rather unexpected although the game had been regarded as more or less of a toss-up.

Ohio Wins 47-0

Ohio university, although crippled, swamped Western Reserve beneath seven touchdowns. The score was 47 to 0. The Bobcats showed up better than at any time this season and they are still given a chance to cop the Buckeye conference title.

The Ohio Wesleyan Bishops hit their stride again and took Cincinnati into camp, 33 to 0. Gauthier's lads seemed to possess new life following the return of Eric Gandrup, star halfback, to the lineup. Wesleyan, in a tie with Miami for the lead in the conference standings, is expected to battle it out with Ohio for the championship.

Akron made a strong come-back in its game with Wooster and won, 13 to 6. Wooster scored first. The Zippers became alarmed and then proceeded to put the game on ice and their goal line was never threatened again.

Case Downs Kent State

Case had difficulty in downing Kent State although the Scientists' lone score was made in the first quarter. Kent threatened in the final frame but the Case forward wall held on the eight-yard line and put the win in the bag.

Ohio Northern did not perform as well as was expected but the Polar Bears were two touchdowns better than Hiram and won 14 to 0.

Wilmington continued its winning streak by downing Cedarville, 20 to 0, in an unimpressive contest.

Wilberforce met defeat for the first time this year by losing to Fisk, at Nashville, Tenn., 12 to 7. The southerners were thus avenged for the last-minute victory which Wilberforce scored last year.

North Carolina State college will play all of its home football games but one at night this fall.

Short Shots on Saturday Grid Game Features

HANOVER, N. H.—There were all manner of long runs in Saturday's clashes but maybe Bill McCall, second string Dartmouth quarter, made the most sensational. He whirled through the entire Columbia team for 85 yards and scored one of the many touchdowns as the Green won, 52 to 0.

• • •

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — Murray, Duke halfback, pulled the ancient hidden ball trick and ran 15 yards before being smashed down; then he gained five more and scored a touchdown, Duke besting the Middies 18 to 0

• • •

CAMBRIDGE, Mass.—Army defeated Harvard 6 to 0 but one of the prettiest plays of the conflict was one that failed by a canary bird's eyelash. Wood threw a 30-yard pass to Harding, behind the Army goal. Harding caught it, juggled it for a minute and then dropped the ball.

• • •

WOOSTER, O.—Akron university's football squad gained a total of 310 yards in defeating Wooster college here Saturday.

• • •

SYRACUSE, N. Y.—Here's some thriller! Pitt needed just six inches to score a touchdown and twice Pitt failed. Then Franklin Hood, 200-pound Pitt fullback crashed through for the Panthers' second touchdown and a 4 to 0 victory over Syracuse.

• • •

CLEVELAND, Oct. 20— Shortly after he plunged over the Kent State goal line for the only touchdown of the game, which spelled victory for the Case Scientists, Frank Roodman, hard-hitting Case fullback, sustained a dislocated shoulder which will keep him on the bench for the rest of the season.

FIRST GAME OF YEAR

10,000 VIEW FATAL AIR RACE CRA

Mistake in Judgment Blamed for Accident Causing Death of Two Fliers.

By International News Service

TRENTON, N. J., Oct. 20—An error in judgment of the distance between the two planes, made by one of the racers in the contest between R. W. Mackie and George Zinn, at Mercer county airport was blamed today for the mid-air crash that caused the deaths of the two pilots in view of 10,000 spectators.

Mackie, 36, of Valley Stream, L. I., and George Zinn, 28, of Ryd[illegible], Pa., were nationally known. Zinn was reputed to be a millionaire.

Mackie and Zinn were competing in a 30-mile event, the final feature of a two-day program of the American Legion's all-eastern meet

They were half through the race, with Mackie leading, and flying 500 feet high when they sped toward a pylon.

Mackie's cassna monoplane was swerving around the marker when Zinn's Waco biplane, field officials observed, shot forward as though to dart in front of Mackie. Zinn's craft clipped Mackie's left wing

As other fliers swerved away Mackie's plane dived to the ground just outside the field. Mackie was killed instantly.

Zinn's ship zoomed about 300 to a hilltop where it crashed in burst of flames. The pilot burned to death.

RECEIVER'S SALE

Pursuant to an order of sale issued out of the Court of Common Pleas of Marion County, Ohio, in the case of William E. Titus doing business as Titus Machine Works, Plaintiff, against the Columbus Marion and Bucyrus Railway Company, and others, being No. 21222 on the Civil Docket of the undersigned George Whysall, Receiver of said The Columbus Marion and Bucyrus Railway Company, on Monday, the 3rd day of November, 1930, at the hour of 10 o'clock A. M., at the West door of the Court House, in the City and County of Marion, Ohio, will offer for sale and sell at public auction to the highest bidder, all and singular the real estate and personal property of said company described as follows:

All and singular its property, real, personal and mixed, and rights, privileges, easements and franchises of every description owned, used or enjoyed by it, including without restricting the generality of the foregoing, a certain line of electric railway, situated and being in the Counties of Marion and Crawford in the State of Ohio, and commencing at a point at the int

STOCK ISSUES REGISTER RISE

Wave of Buying Sweeps Entire Market; Substantial Gains Listed.

By International News Service

NEW YORK, Oct. 20—The bears were rudely hustled out of their comfortable berth today when a wave of investment and speculative buying swept over the whole market, forcing prices of the favorite industrials and utilities one to four points higher, with more moderate gains in the long list of the rails, oils, motors and specialties.

Shortly after the noon period United States Steel started a new upward move which carried the stock to 149 for a gain of nearly four points above Saturday's close. Allied Chemical at that time showed a gain of nine points, while Westinghouse was up nine points; American Can up four; American Tel. up three; Western Union four; Consolidated Gas 2½.

How much of the rally was due to short covering is problematical, but the extent of the short interest has probably been overestimated. Wall Street reported today the best "scale" buying in good grade stocks that has been seen in a month or more.

Atchison led the forward move of the rails and sold up 4 1-4 at 200. New York Central recovered 2 points to sell at 138. Stocks of the rail holding companies were in good demand from the start.

WHEAT PRICE SCORES GAIN

Advance Follows Report That Liverpool Delivery Supply Is Small.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 20—Wheat scored substantial gains in price here early today. The advance followed news that the amount of wheat available for delivery on contracts at Liverpool was very small, and that Russian wheat was not tenderable on Liverpool contracts. Opening ⅝@1 higher, Chicago wheat future deliveries made additional gains quickly, corn and oats sympathized with wheat price upturns, corn starting at ¼ off to ¼ up and afterward showing a rise all around.

Sharp late advances in Liverpool wheat quotations today gave special emphasis to word that Liverpool stocks of wheat aggregated only 2,000,000 bushels against 7,212,000 bushels a year ago. Furthermore, it was shown that the amount of wheat on ocean passage has decreased 1,200,000 bushels in the last week. There were also advices of lack of rain in Canada, which said unless moisture came soon the probable result would be crop damage. It was added that offerings of wheat from India have stopped, and that Canadian country marketings of wheat were practically zero.

On the other hand, Argentine reports today told of wheat crops progressing well as a consequence of good rains. Another bearish factor was a dispatch saying Germany was expected to enforce addition of 15 to 20 per cent of rye flour with wheat flour, and that this was on top of insistence on 80 per cent of home-grown wheat in all grindings, as well as $1.20 a bushel wheat import duty. Notwithstanding such advices, however, Canadian reports today pointed to more or less wheat export business overnight.

Provisions today rose briskly when cereals made gains.

Commercial Travelers Hold Initiation Here

A class of four candidates was initiated at the meeting of Marion Council No. 129 United Commercial Travelers Saturday night in the Elks hall. Six applications were received. Guests included F. B. Wolfe of Tiffin, a member of the supreme executive committee, and A. W. Franklin also of Tiffin, grand secretary.

Following the business session a social hour and lunch were enjoyed. The next meeting will be in the third Saturday in November.

Today in Marion Markets

Groceries, Produce, Meats, Grain, Livestock

Winter's first cold snap brought little if any change to the complexion of Marion market shelves. The fruit and vegetable supply was unchanged and prices were approximately the same as those quoted Friday.

Banana squash was a new offering of Marion county farmers Saturday. The price is five and 10 cents each.

Egg prices were firm at 35 to 39 cents today after a slight upward variation Saturday both in wholesale and retail markets.

Open Weather Increases Ohio Farm Feed Supply

Accumulation Daily Estimated at Thousands of Dollars; Improvement Reported in September Crop Conditions.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 20—The open fall weather is increasing feed supplies for Ohio farmers at the rate of thousands of dollars each day, according to a farm finance bulletin issued by the Ohio Farm Bureau Corporation here today.

Farmers never before, says the bulletin, made as great an effort to save supplies of feed and weather conditions are ideal for this. A large percentage of the corn crop has been placed in silos, the bulletin says. Dry corn fodder is being placed under cover. Late hay has been cut and saved. Some of this feed, according to the bulletin, is not of the highest quality, but it will enable farmers in sections of low yields to provide roughage for their livestock this winter.

Improvement Shown

An actual improvement in crop conditions over September, the bulletin says, has been reported. The index, the bulletin adds, for Ohio crops is 77 per cent of the 10-year average, which is an increase of four per cent during September. This index, the bulletin states, is calculated from all crops taken together. The improvement in the index for the United States as a whole is two per cent and crop yields are estimated at 90 per cent of the 10-year average. Increased acreages will, the bulletin ventures, in part offset this decreased yield so that production of crops this year will not be more than about five per cent under the 10-year average for the United States as a whole. The Ohio decline, the bulletin says, will probably be about 20 per cent under the ten-year average.

The government raised Ohio corn prospects almost 5,000,000 bushels on the first of October, according to the bulletin, and placed the estimate today at 87,000,000 bushels. This increase compares with 125,000,000 bushels last year and an average of 132,000,000 bushels. The United States corn estimate is 2,000,000,000 bushels as against the 10-year average of 2,700,000,000 bushels, the bulletin says.

Sales Run Higher

Consumers, according to the bulletin, are taking livestock at a heavier rate than last year. The inspected slaughtering of cattle is running about 10,000 head a month more and the increase in sheep takings is decidedly larger than last year. For the first nine months of this year a total of 12,237,000 head of sheep were slaughtered, according to the bulletin. This, the bulletin adds, compares with 10,407,000 head last year. Hog slaughterings are lower than last year and for the first nine months amounted to 32,000,000 as against 35,000,000 last year.

Hog prices have been declining as is usual at this time of the year. The market shows a firmness, the bulletin points out, which suggests that prices may not decline very much further this fall. The cattle market, the bulletin says, is somewhat uncertain, but promises to be reasonably fair.

Poultrymen, the bulletin says, are still burdened by heavy supplies in storage. Prices for high grade eggs are increasing rapidly according to the bulletin, and the increase may work back to storage eggs and lead to a heavier consumption of them.

The livestock poultry and dairy price outlook is showing some promise the bulletin states, although the prices will probably continue on a level which will require an exceedingly high grade of feeding management. At best, according to the bulletin, Ohio feeders must expect part of the profits this winter to be delayed until next summer when the livestock carried through the winter can be placed on grass.

Marysville Filling Station Proprietor Scares Two Would-Be Bandits.

Special To The Star

MARYSVILLE, O., Oct. 20—An attempted holdup of the Horseshoe Bend filling station at Elwood avenue and Maple street was frustrated Saturday night when John Merriott took a revolver away from one of two bandits.

The bandits escaped after Merriott attempted to fire several shots at the men. The bandit revolver was not loaded.

At 11:30 p. m. Merriott answered a knock at his door. Two men wanted three gallons of gas for their car. After obtaining the gasoline, one of the men pulled a gun on Merriott. He immediately grabbed the weapon. At the show of resistance the men fled.

PETER P. BURNETTE CLAIMED BY DEATH

Body of Marion Man Buried Today in Gallipolis Cemetery.

Funeral services for Peter P. Burnette, 76, father of 14 children, were held today at 2 p. m. in Gallipolis at the home of a son. The body was sent to Gallipolis this morning by Hess, Markert & Axe, funeral directors. Mr. Burnette died Saturday at 3 p. m at the home of a son, Harry Burnette of 136 East Fairground street.

Mr. Burnette had been ill two years. Death was due to complications. Of the 14 children born to Mr. and Mrs. Burnette, 11 are living. Mr. Burnette was born Aug. 31, 1854, in Sandersville, O., and was married July 2, 1875, to Mary Parish. He joined the Baptist church in Gallipolis when a young man.

The 11 surviving children are Mark and Varney Burnette of Gallia county, Leo and Coleman Burnette of Columbus, Charles Burnette of Athens, Joseph Burnette of Findlay, Chester Burnette of Philadelphia, Mrs. Dan Beeman of 620 Oak street, Mrs. Ed. Webb of 236 North Seffner avenue, Mrs. Harry Smith of 689 Mt. Vernon avenue and Harry Burnette at whose home he died. Twenty-three grandchildren and five great-grandchildren are living.

Short services were held yesterday at 4 p. m. at the Beeman home, with Rev. Lawrence A. Wood, pastor of Trinity Baptist church in charge. Rev. J. L. Sheets was in charge of the services today in Gallipolis. Burial was made in Mound Hill cemetery.

Children should be taught self-restraint, not self-expression. It is something everybody has to learn.

WIDOW OF PASTOR DIES AT HOME HERE

Mrs. Caroline Wonder Caimed at Age of 92; Funeral Wednesday.

Mrs. Caroline Wonder, 92, for 36 years a resident of Marion, died Saturday at 4 p. m. at 235 South Grand avenue, her home since she came here 36 years ago. Mrs. Wonder had been in ill health for a year.

She was a member of Calvary Evangelical church. She was the widow of Rev. D. H. Wonder, a pastor of the Evangelical faith. She and Rev. Wonder traveled extensively during his pastorate. At one time he was in charge of 17 appointments. Rev. Wonder was a minister for 35 years. He died 26 years ago.

Mrs. Wonder was born near Fremont Aug. 23, 1838, to John and Elizabeth Hartman-Orwig, both natives of Pennsylvania.

Four of their six children are living. They are Mrs. Mae Magiott of Marion, Minnie Wonder of Marion, Mrs. Arnold Moser of Hawatha, Kans., and Rev. O. D. Wonder of San Francisco. A daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Meisenheimer died at Mosca, Col., three years ago and a son, John Calvin Wonder died at the age of 13 months.

Ten grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren also survive.

Funeral services will be Wednesday at 2 p. m. at the home and at 2:30 p. m. at Calvary Evangelical church with Rev. E. Radebaugh, pastor, in charge. The body will be removed from the C. E. Curtis Co. mortuary on East Center street late Tuesday afternoon and may be viewed at the home after 7 p. m. on that day.

NEW OHIO LEGION PLANS ANNOUNCED

Commander Elden Names 600 on Committees To Carry Out Program.

By International News service

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 20—Plans for the reorganization of the Ohio department of the American Legion had been made public today by John A. Elden of Cleveland, newly-chosen state commander.

Elden took office Saturday. Announcement of reorganization plans was made after a conference with legion officials, including Dudley A. White of Norwalk, retiring commander.

"Our first attention is to rehabilitate work among veterans of the World war and to child welfare work among the children of these veterans", said Elden. "The second major objective is to place the entire influence of the American legion back of the Americanism movement for the betterment of community, state and nation."

Approximately 600 Ohio legionnaires were named by Elden as members of various committees which will aid in carrying the organization work into effect this year.
